Adenauer Balks At Berlin Plan

Access Control Proposal Seen "Unworkable"

BERLIN (UPI)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said Monday the American plan for international supervision of the access route to isolated Berlin is "unworkable."

He disclosed he is recalling ambassador Wilhelm Grewe from Washington because of Grewe's dispute with the State Department over the plan.

Adenauer arrived here Monday from Bonn in a special U.S. military plane for two days of conferences with retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay who has resigned as President Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin and will return home Tuesday.

The East German Communists promptly labeled Adenauer's flight "a violation of the air corridors." The East German News Agency ADN said he flew here "to lay new obstacles in the way" of possible Soviet-American agreement over the West Berlin problem.

On the American control authority plan for Berlin, Adenauer said, "overall I consider the entire plan unworkable" and that West Germany would prefer not to be a member.

He said he does not foresee a successful conclusion to the American-Soviet talks on Berlin carried on by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin and predicted they might be interrupted.

"No agreement is better than a bad one," Adenauer said.

(In London the Adenauer statement caught diplomatic quarters by surprise but there was no public comment. Authoritative diplomatic sources said they were puzzled since the NATO meeting in Athens on Berlin had been considered "very satisfactory." The West German foreign minister attended that meeting.)

(Officials in Washington also were surprised and puzzled. Although there was no immediate public comment, U. S. officials said they understood that Secretary of State Dean Rusk and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder at Athens had reached general understanding on the major issues.

Red Boss Declares Plan Unacceptable

MOSCOW (AP)—East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht dashed cold water Monday on hopes for an early Berlin settlement. He said in a Pravda interview that East Germany never will accept international control of the access routes to Communist-surrounded West Berlin.

Establishment of such control is a key feature in reports of current U.S.-Soviet contacts on the future of the divided city 110 miles inside East Germany.

"It is out of the question," Ulbricht asserted, "that access to the NATO military base in West Berlin could be insured."

The interview, given to Pavil Satyukov, editor of Pravda, the Communist party organ, and to Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the government newspaper Izvestia, invited speculation here that the Soviet government wanted all its old positions restated publicly once again.

In a summary of the interview, the official Soviet news agency Tass called Ulbricht's views realistic.

Blough Declines To Resign

Roger M. Blough, who appears to be ignoring shareholder Evelyn Yvonne Davis on floor below him, addresses U. S. Steel Corp. stockholders in Hoboken, N. J., yesterday. Miss Davis at one point suggested Blough resign as corporation chairman. Blough was applauded when he called for government-business harmony and when he rejected government intervention in price setting. It was his first appearance before shareholders since he clashed with President Kennedy last month over increasing the price of steel. (AP Photofax)

Reds Striving To Kindle Civil War, Laos Says

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The royal Laotian government Monday conceded loss of strategic Nam Tha to a pro-Communist rebel offensive—with an I told-you-so aside to the United States. It charged the Red aim is to set Laos ablaze with civil war.

"Everybody should now realize that good faith of the Communists is illusory," said Information Minister Bouavan Norasing.

Diplomats wondered whether there would be a reappraisal of efforts by the United States to force Premier Prince Boun Oum's pro-Western regime to step down in favor of a unity coalition of Communists, conservatives and neutralists.

The pressure has included suspension of $3 million in monthly economic aid and acting Foreign Minister Sisouk Na Champassak asserted the government received indications the United States decided last Monday to curtail military aid as well.

"If the United States cuts military aid, Laos would be thrown in the other camp and we would be going toward suicide," Sisouk said.

Red-led forces captured Nam Tha and won undisputed possession of the last of the Laotian territory fronting on Red China in an attack that violated both a 1961 cease-fire order and pacific pledges of the rebel leaders, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and Prince Souphanouvong of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

Sisouk said at least 10 battalions of troops from Red China and Communist North Viet Nam —perhaps 6,0 men—took part in the drive on Nam Tha, which the Pathet Lao placed under siege last January.

Shirttail Revolt Grows At School

At least 21 classmates joined the three sons of Mrs. Harry May and asserted a schoolboy's inalienable right to let his shirttail wander.

The boys paraded outside the school, their shirttails flapping in the breeze, until their parents took them home and went into a series of closed-door conferences with the principal.

French Nuclear Test Confirmed

PARIS (AP)—France reluctantly confirmed Monday that she has conducted her fifth nuclear test in efforts to build an independent atomic striking force.

The underground explosion of a nuclear device took place May 1 in the Algerian Sahara, presumably at France's proving ground at Reggane.

Confirmation came after authoritative sources in Washington reported France had detonated a nuclear device last week. The United States presumably picked up the test on its detection equipment.

The previous four French nuclear tests—the first one was Feb. 13, 1960—were followed within a few hours by official announcements and disclosure of considerable detail.

This time, confirmation of the test came a week after it was accomplished and no details were disclosed, except that the shot was underground. The four other tests were conducted on or slightly above the surface on towers.

Atlas Booster Trouble Delays Orbital Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Problems in the Atlas booster rocket have caused a delay of at least two days in America's second manned orbital flight, informed sources said Monday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) had hoped to send Navy Lt. Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter on a three-orbit ride around the earth May 15, but the complications have pushed the flight back to sometime between May 17 and May 22, barring further troubles, sources said.

The nature of the problems in the booster rocket were not disclosed, but apparently they were discovered during a full practice mission run last Friday by Carpenter and the Project Mercury launch crew.

Engineers indicated it might take them up to two days to find and fix the troubles, sources said, and NASA approved the postponement.

Carpenter's 1½-ton space capsule Monday was hidden behind a rust-red gantry embracing the white shield near the top of the Atlas booster designed to hurl the astronaut into space.

Both the Atlas and the space capsule have been checked out separately and apparently it was during the dovetailing of the two that engineers decided to make some changes. Previously, it had been said that preparations were running smoothly for the scheduled mid-May launch.

Pulitzer Winners Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — A Florida newspaper, the Panama City News-Herald, Monday won the 1962 Pulitzer Prize for meritorious service, on the basis of a three-year campaign against entrenched corruption in the area the newspaper serves.

The editorial award went to a California editor and publisher for calling public attention to activities of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society.

Walter Lippmann, 72-year-old veteran columnist for the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate, became a winner for the second time, being cited for wise and responsible international reporting. He won a special Pulitzer citation in 1958.

Broadway's smash hit, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," won the drama prize. The musical stars Robert Morse as an aggressive young businessman, and Rudy Vallee as a veteran tycoon, and was written by Abe Burrows, Jack Weinstock and Willie Gilbert, with musical score by Frank Loesser. It already had won awards from the New York Drama Critics Circle and the American Theater Wing.

The prize for fiction went to Edwin O'Connor for "The Edge of Sadness," the story of an Irish-American priest in a rundown Boston parish.

In the new Pulitzer Prize category of general non-fiction, the award was won for the first time by Theodore H. White, who celebrated his 47th birthday Sunday, for "The Making of the President, 1960," an account of the last presidential campaign.

The 1962 prize for news photography went to Paul Vathis of the Harrisburg, Pa., Bureau of The Associated Press, for a picture of President Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, heads bowed, backs to the camera during a conference at Camp David, Md., on April 22, 1961. It was the fifth Pulitzer prize in photography won by The Associated Press.

The 46th annual Pulitzer Prizes were awarded by the trustees of Columbia University on recommendation of the Advisory Board on Pulitzer Prizes. They are administered by the graduate school of journalism under terms of the will of the late publisher Joseph Pulitzer.

Other journalism prizes included:

Police Action Averts Riot By Moslems

300 Storm From Casbah In Algiers After Bomb Blast

ALGIERS (UPI) — Three hundred infuriated Moslems stormed out of the Casbah and killed a European youth Monday but riot police aided by Moslem agents brought them under control before they could unleash the massive retaliation sought by the Secret Army Organization (OAS).

At almost the same time French soldiers fought a brief gun battle with four members of the OAS in a suburb, killing a man and a woman terrorist and wounding another. A fourth man shot his way to freedom in the car from which the quartet had just dumped a Moslem body.

Day's Toll 22 Dead

OAS commandos in Oran Monday night attacked the new prefecture of police, opening fire on it with pistols and heavy machine guns after exploding a powerful plastic bomb nearby. They also threw hand grenades before troops drove them off. The OAS destroyed two floors of the 15-story building with bombs last week. Since then police have strengthened the guard.

The toll of violence in Algiers and Oran during the day was 22 killed and 30 wounded. Many of the victims were Moslem women shot down by OAS gunmen in calculated slayings aimed at provoking mass Moslem uprising.

Would Wreck Truce

The OAS believes that if the Moslems can be forced into a mass reprisal the French army will be forced to open fire on them and that this will wreck the cease-fire and postpone indefinitely French plans to make Algeria an independent Moslem nation before the end of the year.

The spark which almost did just that was the explosion of a fourth plastic bomb at the edge of the Casbah. The Moslem mob gathered in the narrow alleys of the lower Casbah. Then they crashed through barbed wire barriers into the Place du Gouvernement on the edge of the European city.

Panic swept through the Europeans in nearby streets as word flashed around that the long-feared Moslem breakout was underway. But hundreds of riot police helped by FLN agents who had formed an unofficial police force of their own managed to halt the riot.

Polaris Scores Atom Bullseye

WASHINGTON (AP)—The submarine crew that fired the first "live" Polaris missile from beneath the Pacific scored a near bullseye with its nuclear warhead at 1,400 miles, it was learned Monday.

Navy sources said the test firing Sunday was a starkly real exercise. It was conducted just as if the United States were at war and the Polaris submarine Ethan Allen had received orders to fire its 16 missiles against enemy targets.

This first full test of a Polaris with a nuclear warhead was described officially by the Navy as a complete success. But the Navy declined to give details.

One informed source said, however, that the Ethan Allen dropped its warhead "right in the pickle barrel."

This meant the warhead probably struck within a mile of the intended target spot in the Pacific nuclear test area. At that distance a Polaris warhead releasing its explosive power — estimated at about 500,000 tons of TNT — would wreak heavy destruction over a wide area.

Underground A-Test Conducted In Nevada

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States conducted an underground nuclear test Monday at its Nevada test site. The Atomic Energy Commission said the shot was of low yield, but gave no details.

The description of it at low yield means it probably had a force about the equivalent of an explosion of 20,000 tons of TNT.

This was the 31st shot in the series of underground tests. The last previous one was April 27.

Mutual Funds Sales Tactics Under Fire

Distributor Defends Setup At Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of his 4,700 salesman work for him in their spare time and begin soliciting after 24 hours' training, a mutual fund distributor told a government inquiry into securities salesmanship Monday.

Walter Benedick, president of Investors Planning Corp. of America, said his whole organization is geared to this moonlight operation. The firm, he added, keeps its offices open evenings so salesmen can meet with their supervisors.

If he had to abide by New York Stock Exchange rules which forbid brokerage salesmen from holding second jobs, Benedick testified, "I would say it would be catastrophic for us."

He added that he knows of no improper sales by members of his organization and said any complaints from customers stemmed from misunderstandings.

Benedick was the first industry witness as the Securities and Exchange Commission opened its first broad public investigation of the securities business since 1934. The inquiry into the training, supervision and sales practices of securities salesmen is expected to last two weeks.

The hearing opened with SEC officials pointing up the lack of government control over individual securities salesmen and their sales techniques.

"We have practically no power over salesmen" of mutual funds, said Allan F. Conwell, the SEC's director of corporate regulation.

Philip A. Loomis Jr., the SEC's director of trading and exchanges, said the agency is powerless to deal with some brokerage abuses because it can bar only salesmen found violating securities laws. Loomis' testimony touched on brokerage dealings, which are to come up later. The start of the inquiry is focused on mutual funds.

Benedick's firm sells shares of three mutual funds with total assets of about $500 million. The funds are National Investors Corp., Axe-Houghton Fund B and Axe Science and Electronics Fund. IP C has headquarters in New York City and branch offices in Buffalo, N.Y., Hackensack, N.J., Baltimore, Md., and Arlington, Va.

Benedick said all salesmen take a 24-hour course and then must pass an examination administered by the National Association of Securities Dealers before they can begin soliciting business. In addition, he testified, about half of IPC's prospective salesmen take an additional 10-hour refresher course before undergoing the examination.

Boston Group To Aid Negroes

BOSTON (AP)—An 11-member committee was set up Monday to aid any Negro families that accept one-way trips from the South to Boston at the urging of segregationist groups.

The committee met at the Beacon Hill office of Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of President Kennedy, and elected the Rev. Richard Ownes, of the People's Baptist Church, as chairman and O. Phillip Snowden, of Freedom House Inc., a Negro organization, as coordinator.

Kennedy said Massachusetts "has always opened her heart to displaced members of minority groups," in a statement issued at the close of the meeting.

Last week the Capital Citizens Council at Little Rock, Ark., announced plans to select two Negro families to fly to Boston Tuesday on one way tickets.

A spokesman for Kennedy said two contractors in Massachusetts have promised jobs to the fathers of the two Little Rock families due here Tuesday.

In Little Rock, the proposal of a segregationist group to fly two Negro families to Hyannis Port, Mass., the summer home of President Kennedy, hit a snag.

There are no applicants for the flight.

Topeka Math Instructor Named Teacher Of Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marjorie L. French of Topeka, Kan., high school, who "gives her students the kind of salt that makes them thirsty for knowledge," was named Monday as National Teacher of the Year for 1962.

A teacher in her native Kansas for 23 years, 14 of them in the Topeka school system, Mrs. French was chosen for the honor from among the 1.4 million elementary and high school teachers in the country.

At a White House ceremony next Monday, she will receive from President Kennedy a gold lapel pin and a certificate emblematic of her award.

Competition for the National Teacher of the Year award is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education, the Council of Chief State School Officers and Look magazine. Mrs. French, a mathematics teacher, is featured in a four - page article in Look's May 22 issue.

To be eligible for the competition, teachers must first be nominated by their chief state school officer.

After being observed at work, nominees are then rated by a committee of national leaders in education.

It was Topeka's director of instruction who said of Mrs. French, "she gives her students the kind of salt that makes them thirsty for knowledge."

Agriculture Chief Says Government 'Hasn't Lost Dime'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said Monday his department may have "dragged a bit" in its handling of the Billie Sol Estes case, but he denied any favoritism had been shown the Texas financier.

Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, charged Freeman was trying to "whitewash" his department and renewed Republican demands for a full congressional investigation of the case.

"The government hasn't lost a dime—not a single dime to Estes," Freeman said, adding: "This cannot be said for some of the big finance companies which apparently have lost millions to Estes."

"The department could have come out much worse," Freeman told nearly 100 reporters crammed into his office for a long, turbulent news conference.

Wilson, in a statement, said that despite Freeman's claims no favoritism was granted, Estes "obviously received a lot of special consideration" from the Agriculture Department.

Warehouse Deal Cited

Wilson said Estes was allowed to put up only $700,000 bond on grain storage warehouses when the court-appointed receiver had to put up $10 million.

"The department accepted without question Estes' claim of a net worth of $12 million," Wilson said, "while at the same time he was claiming losses to the Internal Revenue Service and receiving hefty refunds on his income tax."

Wilson charged the Democratic-controlled Congress "is dragging its feet" on an investigation of the Estes case.

Freeman told his news conference the man who made the decision not to require a higher bond from Estes was a Civil Service employe with 25 years outstanding service in the department.

But he said the man who had to judge the validity of Estes' net worth statement was not a certified public accountant "and we ought to have one in that job.

"This procedure is being reviewed," Freeman said. "We have a lot of procedures around here that could stand some reviewing."

Estes' Empire Crumbles

In recent months, however, Estes' empire has fallen apart. He is under a federal indictment on fraud charges and is the subject of energetic investigation by both state and federal authorities.

As to the department's role, Freeman said:

"It appears to me that this is getting ballooned out of all proportion. All that appears so far is is that three people may have received favors from Billie Sol Estes. There is no indication that any of the three made any decisions under the influence of these gifts."

With regard to the three department employes who reportedly accepted gifts of clothing from Estes, Freeman noted that one had resigned, another had been fired when he refused to answer questions, and the third had gone to Texas to testify under oath about the incident.

Senate Debate Cutoff Vote Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders filed a petition Monday to cut off the two-week-old talkfest on the literacy test bill—and they said the showdown on Wednesday could result in a tougher rule against filibusters in 1963.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that a series of votes Wednesday may show that a majority favor the bill even though it may not be possible to obtain the two-thirds majority needed to stop debate and bring the measure up for a vote.

In such a situation the duty of the leadership would be clear, Mansfield said. "It must, perforce, propose to the Senate, once again, early in the next session, that the rule for closing debate be altered to reduce the present requirement of a two-thirds majority for invoking cloture," he said.

The literacy test bill would provide that a state cannot prevent a person from voting by means of a literacy test if he has received a sixth-grade education.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther declared Monday night that his union agrees "whole-heartedly" with President Kennedy's efforts to achieve price stability.

Reuther said in a special statement that collective bargaining should take place within the framework of Kennedy's plea for non-inflationary wage settlements.

The toll of violence in Algiers and Oran during the day was 22 killed and 30 wounded. Many of the victims were Moslem women shot down by OAS gunmen in calculated slayings aimed at provoking mass Moslem uprising.

Would Wreck Truce

The OAS believes that if the Moslems can be forced into a mass reprisal the French army will be forced to open fire on them and that this will wreck the cease-fire and postpone indefinitely French plans to make Algeria an independent Moslem nation before the end of the year.

The spark which almost did just that was the explosion of a fourth plastic bomb at the edge of the Casbah. The Moslem mob gathered in the narrow alleys of the lower Casbah. Then they crashed through barbed wire barriers into the Place du Gouvernement on the edge of the European city.

Panic swept through the Europeans in nearby streets as word flashed around that the long-feared Moslem breakout was underway. But hundreds of riot police helped by FLN agents who had formed an unofficial police force of their own managed to halt the riot.

Polaris Scores Atom Bullseye

WASHINGTON (AP)—The submarine crew that fired the first "live" Polaris missile from beneath the Pacific scored a near bullseye with its nuclear warhead at 1,400 miles, it was learned Monday.

Navy sources said the test firing Sunday was a starkly real exercise. It was conducted just as if the United States were at war and the Polaris submarine Ethan Allen had received orders to fire its 16 missiles against enemy targets.

This first full test of a Polaris with a nuclear warhead was described officially by the Navy as a complete success. But the Navy declined to give details.

One informed source said, however, that the Ethan Allen dropped its warhead "right in the pickle barrel."

This meant the warhead probably struck within a mile of the intended target spot in the Pacific nuclear test area. At that distance a Polaris warhead releasing its explosive power — estimated at about 500,000 tons of TNT — would wreak heavy destruction over a wide area.

Underground A-Test Conducted In Nevada

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States conducted an underground nuclear test Monday at its Nevada test site. The Atomic Energy Commission said the shot was of low yield, but gave no details.

The description of it at low yield means it probably had a force about the equivalent of an explosion of 20,000 tons of TNT.

This was the 31st shot in the series of underground tests. The last previous one was April 27.

Mutual Funds Sales Tactics Under Fire

Distributor Defends Setup At Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of his 4,700 salesman work for him in their spare time and begin soliciting after 24 hours' training, a mutual fund distributor told a government inquiry into securities salesmanship Monday.

Walter Benedick, president of Investors Planning Corp. of America, said his whole organization is geared to this moonlight operation. The firm, he added, keeps its offices open evenings so salesmen can meet with their supervisors.

If he had to abide by New York Stock Exchange rules which forbid brokerage salesmen from holding second jobs, Benedick testified, "I would say it would be catastrophic for us."

He added that he knows of no improper sales by members of his organization and said any complaints from customers stemmed from misunderstandings.

Benedick was the first industry witness as the Securities and Exchange Commission opened its first broad public investigation of the securities business since 1934. The inquiry into the training, supervision and sales practices of securities salesmen is expected to last two weeks.

The hearing opened with SEC officials pointing up the lack of government control over individual securities salesmen and their sales techniques.

"We have practically no power over salesmen" of mutual funds, said Allan F. Conwell, the SEC's director of corporate regulation.

Philip A. Loomis Jr., the SEC's director of trading and exchanges, said the agency is powerless to deal with some brokerage abuses because it can bar only salesmen found violating securities laws. Loomis' testimony touched on brokerage dealings, which are to come up later. The start of the inquiry is focused on mutual funds.

Benedick's firm sells shares of three mutual funds with total assets of about $500 million. The funds are National Investors Corp., Axe-Houghton Fund B and Axe Science and Electronics Fund. IP C has headquarters in New York City and branch offices in Buffalo, N.Y., Hackensack, N.J., Baltimore, Md., and Arlington, Va.

Benedick said all salesmen take a 24-hour course and then must pass an examination administered by the National Association of Securities Dealers before they can begin soliciting business. In addition, he testified, about half of IPC's prospective salesmen take an additional 10-hour refresher course before undergoing the examination.

Boston Group To Aid Negroes

BOSTON (AP)—An 11-member committee was set up Monday to aid any Negro families that accept one-way trips from the South to Boston at the urging of segregationist groups.

The committee met at the Beacon Hill office of Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of President Kennedy, and elected the Rev. Richard Ownes, of the People's Baptist Church, as chairman and O. Phillip Snowden, of Freedom House Inc., a Negro organization, as coordinator.

Kennedy said Massachusetts "has always opened her heart to displaced members of minority groups," in a statement issued at the close of the meeting.

Last week the Capital Citizens Council at Little Rock, Ark., announced plans to select two Negro families to fly to Boston Tuesday on one way tickets.

A spokesman for Kennedy said two contractors in Massachusetts have promised jobs to the fathers of the two Little Rock families due here Tuesday.

In Little Rock, the proposal of a segregationist group to fly two Negro families to Hyannis Port, Mass., the summer home of President Kennedy, hit a snag.

There are no applicants for the flight.

Topeka Math Instructor Named Teacher Of Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marjorie L. French of Topeka, Kan., high school, who "gives her students the kind of salt that makes them thirsty for knowledge," was named Monday as National Teacher of the Year for 1962.

A teacher in her native Kansas for 23 years, 14 of them in the Topeka school system, Mrs. French was chosen for the honor from among the 1.4 million elementary and high school teachers in the country.

At a White House ceremony next Monday, she will receive from President Kennedy a gold lapel pin and a certificate emblematic of her award.

Competition for the National Teacher of the Year award is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education, the Council of Chief State School Officers and Look magazine. Mrs. French, a mathematics teacher, is featured in a four - page article in Look's May 22 issue.

To be eligible for the competition, teachers must first be nominated by their chief state school officer.

After being observed at work, nominees are then rated by a committee of national leaders in education.

It was Topeka's director of instruction who said of Mrs. French, "she gives her students the kind of salt that makes them thirsty for knowledge."

Agriculture Chief Says Government 'Hasn't Lost Dime'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said Monday his department may have "dragged a bit" in its handling of the Billie Sol Estes case, but he denied any favoritism had been shown the Texas financier.

Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, charged Freeman was trying to "whitewash" his department and renewed Republican demands for a full congressional investigation of the case.

"The government hasn't lost a dime—not a single dime to Estes," Freeman said, adding: "This cannot be said for some of the big finance companies which apparently have lost millions to Estes."

"The department could have come out much worse," Freeman told nearly 100 reporters crammed into his office for a long, turbulent news conference.

Wilson, in a statement, said that despite Freeman's claims no favoritism was granted, Estes "obviously received a lot of special consideration" from the Agriculture Department.

Warehouse Deal Cited

Wilson said Estes was allowed to put up only $700,000 bond on grain storage warehouses when the court-appointed receiver had to put up $10 million.

"The department accepted without question Estes' claim of a net worth of $12 million," Wilson said, "while at the same time he was claiming losses to the Internal Revenue Service and receiving hefty refunds on his income tax."

Wilson charged the Democratic-controlled Congress "is dragging its feet" on an investigation of the Estes case.

Freeman told his news conference the man who made the decision not to require a higher bond from Estes was a Civil Service employe with 25 years outstanding service in the department.

But he said the man who had to judge the validity of Estes' net worth statement was not a certified public accountant "and we ought to have one in that job.

"This procedure is being reviewed," Freeman said. "We have a lot of procedures around here that could stand some reviewing."

Estes' Empire Crumbles

In recent months, however, Estes' empire has fallen apart. He is under a federal indictment on fraud charges and is the subject of energetic investigation by both state and federal authorities.

As to the department's role, Freeman said:

"It appears to me that this is getting ballooned out of all proportion. All that appears so far is is that three people may have received favors from Billie Sol Estes. There is no indication that any of the three made any decisions under the influence of these gifts."

With regard to the three department employes who reportedly accepted gifts of clothing from Estes, Freeman noted that one had resigned, another had been fired when he refused to answer questions, and the third had gone to Texas to testify under oath about the incident.

Senate Debate Cutoff Vote Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders filed a petition Monday to cut off the two-week-old talkfest on the literacy test bill—and they said the showdown on Wednesday could result in a tougher rule against filibusters in 1963.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that a series of votes Wednesday may show that a majority favor the bill even though it may not be possible to obtain the two-thirds majority needed to stop debate and bring the measure up for a vote.

In such a situation the duty of the leadership would be clear, Mansfield said. "It must, perforce, propose to the Senate, once again, early in the next session, that the rule for closing debate be altered to reduce the present requirement of a two-thirds majority for invoking cloture," he said.

The literacy test bill would provide that a state cannot prevent a person from voting by means of a literacy test if he has received a sixth-grade education.

Five States Vote Today In Primary Elections

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Voters in five states will cast their ballots Tuesday in primary elections dotted with familiar political names from the past.

Ohio, Florida, Indiana, New Mexico and West Virginia will choose Democratic and Republican nominees for Senate and House seats, governorships and various other state offices.

In Florida, former Sen. Claude Pepper is attempting a political comeback by seeking the Democratic nomination for one of the state's four new House seats. He has three opponents.

In Ohio, the sons of two former senators are battling for the Republican nomination for a House seat at large. They are state Rep. Robert Taft Jr., son of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, and state Sen. Thomas Lowell Fess, son of the late Sen. Simeon D. Fess.

Ohio's Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, faces a stiff fight for renomination against state Atty. Gen. Mark L. McElroy. DiSalle, who helped President Kennedy toward the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination, was favored to win.

He then would face an even bigger challenge in the November elections from state Auditor James A. Rhodes, rated a sure winner in the GOP gubernatorial primary.

Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche appeared to have the edge for renomination in Ohio against Albert T. Ball, a former labor organizer. John Marshall Briley, a Toledo lawyer, and state Sen. Charles E. Fry were the favorites for the GOP nomination.

In Florida, Sen. George Smathers and Rep. Dante Fascell, both Democrats, have received the endorsement of President Kennedy and seemed certain to be renominated.

New Mexico voters faced a confusing situation in which one of Democratic Rep. Joseph M. Montoya's primary opponents is named Joseph E. Montoya.

New Mexico's Gov. Edwin L. Mechem is unopposed for renomination in the Republican primary. Four Democrats are seeking the right to oppose Mechem in November.

Indiana and West Virginia will nominate candidates for the House but not for senator or governor.

White House Rose Garden Refurbished

WASHINGTON (AP) — The workmen are gone and blue and white pansies are blooming in the White House's newly refurbished rose garden.

President Kennedy stepped out of his office in the bright morning sunlight Monday to use the garden spot officially for the first time since it has been replanted and redesigned.

It will be a little while before the roses are blooming. But when they do, a National Park Service spokesman said they will be bigger and more varied than before.

The garden now features a yellow rose from Texas—the Speaker Sam rose, a variety with pink edging named after the late speaker of the House Sam Rayburn of Texas. And there's another yellow variety, the Peace rose. Both reportedly are favorites of the President.

Eventually, there will be Moss roses, polyantha and a mixture of old-fashioned American roses to maintain the garden started by the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson in 1913.

Forty Speaker Sam roses have been planted in the long beds that go down either side of the garden plot.

It will be a constant project for the National Park Service to keep the flowers of the season blooming outside the President's office.

Light West Va. Voter Turnout Expected Today

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Only two districts will have contests Tuesday in primary voting to nominate candidates for the five House seats West Virginia will have in the next congress.

The primary will be the first West Virginia election since 1938 without a statewide race. A light voter turnout is expected.

All six House incumbents - five Democrats and one Republican — are running, but only five seats are to be filled this year. West Virginia's population has dropped and it is losing one of its six present seats.

The only district with primary contests in both parties is the 4th. Its 13 counties in the western part of the state are mostly along or near the Ohio River.

Rep. Ken Hechler of Huntington, seeking a third term, has Democratic primary opposition from 42-year-old State Sen. Dan Dahill, a Logan lawyer, and George W. Mc Clung of Huntington, formerly on Hechler's Washington staff.

Running for the Republican nomination in the 4th are Clyde B. Pinson of Huntington, the unsuccessful GOP nominee against Hechler in 1960; Mrs. E. Wyatt Payne of Huntington, a former state legislator, and Robert E. Wright of Sistersville, prosecuting attorney for Tyler County.

In the 5th district, a far-south coal-mining area, newcomer Robert J St.aker, a Williamson attorney, opposes Rep. Elizabeth Kee of Bluefield for the Democratic nomination. James S. Crockett of Welch is unopposed on the Republican ticket.

Upstate in the 1st district, three-term Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr. of Glen Dale, the only Republican in the present delegation, and eight-term Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey of Clarksburg, Democrat, are unopposed in the primary.

Moore and Bailey will be November opponents in a novel incumbent-vs-incumbent race. The realignment of counties into five congressional districts instead of six shifted Bailey's home county from the 3rd to the 1st.

Unopposed in the primary are incumbelt Democrats Harley O. Staggers of Keyser in the 2nd district and John M. Slack Jr. of Charleston in the 3rd.

Inez Robb's Publisher Irked As Books Returned

NEW YORK (AP) — The publisher of a new book by syndicated columnist Inez Robb complained Monday that the American tradition of giving every man "a right to express his opinion" has been openly flouted in Phoenix, Ariz."

The David McKay Co., Inc., issued a statement after receiving word that a Phoenix bookstore was returning all of its copies of Mrs. Robb's book, "Don't Just Stand There."

Mrs. Robb, who became embroiled in a controversy over anti-Communist literature in her Phoenix hotel room, autographed copies of her book in the Henri Gautier bookstore on April 28.

The McKay company said the store proprietor now has written, "I will be ashamed (of having her in the store) as long as I live."

The company said, "Such actions amount to infringement of the right of free speech."

Mrs. Robb and her husband, J. Addison Robb, were evicted from the Camelback Inn in Phoenix on April 28.

Mrs. Jack Stewart, wife of the inn's owner, said it was because the columnist criticized the hotel for having anti-Communist literature in its rooms but not the Bible.

Mrs. Robb made her comments in a speech to the Arizona Association of Deans of Women.

Maryland Prospering, Tawes Tells Bankers

The governor said plant contracts in Maryland increased by 79.5 per cent last year, compared to only 1 per cent for the United States as a whole. This represented a capital investment of nearly $127 million, he said.

Speaking at the annual convention of the bankers, Tawes said the condition of the economy "warrants gratification for the present and optimism for the future."

Go To Hell? It's Booming

The result A business boom in Hell.

Hell soon will have its first motel.

Hell's post office has put in a new substation.

Hell's Chamber of Commerce president, Mel Reinhart, is giving the devil its due. He credits much of the business boom to the Michigan State Highway Department. It recently put Hell, a community of about 300 near Detroit, on the official state map.

A little later the post office went up. And visitors to Hell were able to send post cards to their friends with authentic post marks.

Mrs. Beulah Dewey, who thinks Hell is a pretty nice place to live, is postmistress.

But the people who live in Hell do have one complaint. There aren't enough road signs, they say, telling people how to go to Hell.

Ike Admits U2 Denial Blunder

NEW YORK (AP)—Look magazine said Monday former President Dwight D. Eisenhower admitted his administration blundered in originally denying the U2 spy flight of Francis Gary Powers. wthe magazine added that Eisenhower's son prevailed upon him to keep his views private.

"In retrospect, the President realized that the crisis had been badly handled," the magazine said. "He admitted privately that the United States had jumped too soon in issuing its May 5 statement.

"Eisenhower also said this in an interview filmed by CBS for telecast on Nov. 23, 1961. But this portion of the film was snipped out at the insistence of Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, the President's son, who is serving as his father's aide."

These views were given in a copyright article in the current issue of Look by Washington newsmen David Wise and Thomas B. Ross. The article was condensed from "The U2 Affair," to be published by Random House Inc.

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—Under Secretary Ralph Bunche of the United Nations said Monday U.N. popularity is at an all time peak despite mounting criticism from what he called "rightist detractors and other lunatic fringe groups."

Among such groups he listed in an address to the United Auto Workers Convention were "those muddled and addlepated ladies" of the Daughters of the American Revolution along with "the John Birchers, (William) Buckley and his National Review (and) Soldiers of the Cross."

THE DAY THESE WIRE PLIERS CUT THROUGH ROPE

It was a quiet day in a quiet Baltimore neighborhood. Not that telephone lineman Clarence Bivens particulary noticed. He was absorbed in work, at his high perch atop a utility pole.

Suddenly Clarence heard the frightening sound of a child choking. He looked in all directions and at first saw nothing. Then, some hundred yards away, he spotted a small boy hanging by his neck, from a rope tied to a tree limb.

Hardly believing his eyes, Clarence clambered down the pole, dashed to the tree and severed the rope with his pliers.

Happily, the four-year-old boy escaped with just mild rope burns on his neck. Lineman Bivens had prevented a tragic ending to a child's game that had toyed with danger.

For five years, Clarence Bivens has been using his skill and tools to provide dependable telephone service. But his lineman's pliers never performed a more important service than on the day he cut the rope.

Mrs. Jack Stewart, wife of the inn's owner, said it was because the columnist criticized the hotel for having anti-Communist literature in its rooms but not the Bible.

Mrs. Robb made her comments in a speech to the Arizona Association of Deans of Women.

New York Woman U.S. Chess Champion

The 43-year-old New Yorker went through the two-week tournament at the Marshall and Manhattan Chess Clubs without the loss of a game and finished with a flourish by defeating the defending champion, Lisa Lane, also of New York, in 33 moves Sunday night.

Go To Hell? It's Booming

HELL, Mich. (AP) — Now that Hell is on the map, people are finding it an attractive place to go.

The result A business boom in Hell.

Hell soon will have its first motel.

Hell's post office has put in a new substation.

Hell's Chamber of Commerce president, Mel Reinhart, is giving the devil its due. He credits much of the business boom to the Michigan State Highway Department. It recently put Hell, a community of about 300 near Detroit, on the official state map.

A little later the post office went up. And visitors to Hell were able to send post cards to their friends with authentic post marks.

Mrs. Beulah Dewey, who thinks Hell is a pretty nice place to live, is postmistress.

But the people who live in Hell do have one complaint. There aren't enough road signs, they say, telling people how to go to Hell.

Ike Admits U2 Denial Blunder

NEW YORK (AP)—Look magazine said Monday former President Dwight D. Eisenhower admitted his administration blundered in originally denying the U2 spy flight of Francis Gary Powers. wthe magazine added that Eisenhower's son prevailed upon him to keep his views private.

"In retrospect, the President realized that the crisis had been badly handled," the magazine said. "He admitted privately that the United States had jumped too soon in issuing its May 5 statement.

"Eisenhower also said this in an interview filmed by CBS for telecast on Nov. 23, 1961. But this portion of the film was snipped out at the insistence of Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, the President's son, who is serving as his father's aide."

These views were given in a copyright article in the current issue of Look by Washington newsmen David Wise and Thomas B. Ross. The article was condensed from "The U2 Affair," to be published by Random House Inc.

Bunche Assails Critics Of U.N.

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—Under Secretary Ralph Bunche of the United Nations said Monday U.N. popularity is at an all time peak despite mounting criticism from what he called "rightist detractors and other lunatic fringe groups."

Bunche said Communist critics of the U. N. must "admire and envy the lack of conscience and shame with which our home grown right wingers do violence to the truth."

Among such groups he listed in an address to the United Auto Workers Convention were "those muddled and addlepated ladies" of the Daughters of the American Revolution along with "the John Birchers, (William) Buckley and his National Review (and) Soldiers of the Cross."

THE DAY THESE WIRE PLIERS CUT THROUGH ROPE

It was a quiet day in a quiet Baltimore neighborhood. Not that telephone lineman Clarence Bivens particulary noticed. He was absorbed in work, at his high perch atop a utility pole.

Suddenly Clarence heard the frightening sound of a child choking. He looked in all directions and at first saw nothing. Then, some hundred yards away, he spotted a small boy hanging by his neck, from a rope tied to a tree limb.

Hardly believing his eyes, Clarence clambered down the pole, dashed to the tree and severed the rope with his pliers.

Happily, the four-year-old boy escaped with just mild rope burns on his neck. Lineman Bivens had prevented a tragic ending to a child's game that had toyed with danger.

For five years, Clarence Bivens has been using his skill and tools to provide dependable telephone service. But his lineman's pliers never performed a more important service than on the day he cut the rope.

State Official Testifies At Opening Of S&L Probe

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — A grand jury heard two hours of testimony from Maryland Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph Kaufman Monday in the opening of an investigation into the closing of four Montgomery County savings and loan associations.

Kaufman told reporters after the closed-door session that States Attorney Leonard T. Kardy of Montgomery County had instructed him not to comment or answer question about the investigation.

Kardy said all the approximately 60 witnesses would be similarly instructed.

It was understood, however, that Kaufman gave the jurors a picture of the savings and loan situation in Maryland and recounted past efforts at regulations.

On leaving the jury room, he was carrying a copy of the laws of Maryland as they relate to building and loan associations and a research report prepared for the Maryland Legislative Council in 1940.

"There were a lot of good recommendations made at that time," said Kaufman, holding the book out for reporters to scan.

"If they had been followed we would have had a law before the present situation developed." Maryland's first law was enacted last year.

Jack McKeever, receiver for the First Continental Savings and Loan Association of Chevy Chase, was scheduled to follow Kaufman before the 21-member grand jury.

Before going into the jury room, McKeever said an audit of the association showed that on Jan. 3, the day it was closed, it had $2.7 million in 4,400 accounts.

First Continental is currently fighting to re-open, arguing before the Maryland Court of Appeals, that the state's action was illegal.

450 Furloughed At Sparrows Point

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Co. reported Monday it has laid off 450 workers at its Sparrows Point plant the past three weeks, but declined to say if future furloughs are contemplated.

Charles Nelson, international representative for the steelworkers' union, expressed concern that unemployment may reach 5,000 to 6,000. He said one open hearth and some blast furnaces are being shut down.

The Sparrows Point plant has employed about 30,000.

Africa Diplomat Reports Racial Discrimination

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A Nigerian diplomat said Monday two restaurants in Baltimore refused to serve him last week because of his color. He said two motels there turned him away, saying there were no vacancies.

The diplomat is Eswakema Oton, vice consul for information in Nigeria's New York consulate general, and press officer for its U.N. delegation.

Oton said in an interview he visited Baltimore last Tuesday on a sightseeing trip.

He said that at Stanley's Restaurant, North Crescent Street and the U.S. 40, the sign outside read, "Drive in," but a man inside said, "We don't serve colored."

He related that at Helen's Lunchroom, 3121 N. Monument St., a woman told him he could get food to carry out but "We can't serve you here."

He tried both restaurants, he said, as he was driving back to New York after failing to find a place to stay.

Oton said that at the Holiday Inn Motel, 3600 Pulaski Highway, on U.S. 40, the desk clerk told him there were no vacancies but then telephoned the New Motel, four blocks away, and reported, "They have vacancies."

However, at the New Motel a moment later, Oton said, he was advised there were no vacancies there either.

At Baltimore, an employe at Stanley's Restaurant said he did not know about the Oton incident, but that the restaurant does not serve Negroes.

There was no Helen's Lunchroom listed at the Monument Street address.

The managers of the two motels involved said they had no vacancies last Tuesday.

Charles Castoro, manager of the New Motel, said the management maintains a policy of not serving local Negroes. "But if this gentlemen had shown his identification and we had had a room, his request would have been honored," Castoro said.

Suit Charges Trucking Head Owes $18,202 Tax

EASTON, Md. (AP) — U.S. Attorney Joseph D. Tydings told the U.S. District Court Monday that the president of Service Trucking Co., Inc., personally owes the government more than $18,202 and his company $4,456 in back income taxes.

An Internal Revenue Service agent worked for a year in the trucking company's offices in Federalsburg, Md. gathering the information contained in the suits.

The government's suit charges that Gilbert A. Banning claimed a taxable income of $17,711 for 1954 through 1957, while investigation showed Banning had earned $75,711 in taxable income.

Tydings told the court that Banning had paid the government $3,639 during the four-year period. The government's suit said he owed $21,841 for the period.

Service Trucking Co. paid the government taxes for a claimed $121,118 income during the four year period, the suit claimed. But the government contends the company's income was actually $179,032.

The widest variance in figures showed Banning claiming he earned $4,737 in taxable income during 1954, while the government figures said it was more like $40,502.

The government's suit claimed the trucking company president deposited company checks to his personal account in 1954, which had been made out in payment of maintenance and service fees for the company.

The government suit said during the three years that followed he deposited in his personal account payments made to Service by its customers.

Marvin Smith, attorney for the defendants, said the company had become involved in "kickbacks" to its customers because of competition from what he called "gypsy" trucking companies.

Smith said the "kick-back" had necessitated a great amount of cash dealings.

Right-To-Vote Bill Introduced By Beall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., introduced legislation Monday which would urge the states to permit citizens residing on federally owned property other than military reservations to vote in federal elections.

"Thousands of good American citizens are now denied, by some states, the right to vote for the sole reason that they reside on federally owned property," the senator said in a statement accompanying his bill.

His measure would merely declare the desire of congress, stopping short of any attempt to change the laws.

Lots Of Foreign Cars

The Maryland Port Authority reported Monday that 10,477 imported cars were landed during March in Baltimore, nearly double the number handled in the same month last year.

In the first three months of this year, the 26,993 foreign cars passing through the Baltimore port were more than half the number for all of 1961.

The Church of St. Peter's in Rome holds 35,000 persons.

Train Minds For Survival, Mathias Says

BALTIMORE (AP) — Training the minds of all citizens is the best way to survive, Rep. Charles McC Mathias, R-Md., said Monday.

"There is no room for softness, timidity and indecision in the battle of the mind," Mathias said. "The best way to survive is to prevent war through preparedness in all phases of society and with strength in being.

"The civilian is as much a member of the defense forces as the military."

Mathias was the keynote speaker at a seminar for 200 military and civilian leaders which he described as only "one means of training all peoples in the role they have in the struggle for survival."

The seminar will last 10 days. The instructors are from the Industrial College of Armed Forces, a joint military educational institution.

Subjects to be covered in lectures and demonstrations include outer space, Communism, civil defense, U.S. foreign policy, and the military and economic capabilities of other nations.

The first government employment bureau was established in Paris, France, in 1843.

Md. Guard Opposes Cut

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland National Guard has refused to comply with a Pentagon request for suggestions concerning which units of the state guard should be disbanded.

The refusal runs counter to the position of the National Guard Bureau, which favored a nationwide cutback of 475 units the Army says are no longer needed. The objective is to apply an average 10 per cent cut among state units.

The Maryland National Guard was one of 26 state guard organizations which replied to the request — most refusing to go along with the proposed cutback. Another 24 states and the District of Columbia did not reply.

Lt. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of the Maryland guard, termed the proposed cutback "unnecessary and inefficient."

Reckord, who said the proposed reduction would affect some 800 to 1,000 guard members in Maryland, said Gov. Tawes supports his views. The law stipulates that governors must agree before any units within their states are altered or dropped.

The Army could "probably beat us if they are stubborn enough to do it," Reckord said, "but we're not going down without a fight."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: I learned something this week. Graduation announcements are right up there with the flag, motherhood and the U.S. Marines.

Thousands of high school seniors have registered unbridled wrath at my attack on sending graduation announcements. I am not backing down one inch, but please allow me to set the record straight.

A great many of those who screamed are mistaken at the top of their lungs. Clearly, they don't know the difference between an invitation and an announcement. I strongly favor invitations. I am dead opposed to announcements.

If you wish to invite someone to attend your commencement exercises, fine, but remember, this is an INVITATION — not an announcement. In most cities, this means sending tickets as very few auditoriums can accommodate unlimited crowds.

A mail piece which informs — after the fact — the recipient that a graduation (or a marriage) has taken place, is only one thing in my book. It's an invoice (a request for a present) and it's wrong — all wrong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a registered nurse who would like to reply to the private duty nurse whose experiences turned her sour on the human race. She said in her letter that people are "inconsiderate, demanding and unappreciative."

My years in the profession have taught me that most people are generous, thoughtful and kind. Many families included me in their activities far more than I thought was necessary. They invited me to have meals in the dining room with them. Or when the duty was particularly rigorous they insisted that I get away from the house for meals because I "needed a break."

One family asked me to stay for a dinner party and I begged off saying I had nothing to wear, only my uniform. The daughter who was my size, brought out some of her lovely dresses and insisted that I wear the one I liked best.

When I get "stuck" for holidays I try to remember that the patient is missing a holiday, too — and it may be his last.

My profession has permitted me to see raw, human emotions, without shame or pretense. And I have learned from nursing that most people are good and that they will respond to love and kindness by returning it ten-fold.

— ANOTHER R. N.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are a family of five, two sons and one daughter. We bought this one-bathroom home in a hurry because the price was right and it was well located.

Our daughter is 11 years of age and she is beginning to spend time primping and pinning her hair up at night. I will admit she monopolizes the bathroom rather thoughtlessly. Her father resents this. Sometimes when she's in the tub her father wants to shave. He orders her to unlock the door which makes her angry.

I feel a girl her age should be allowed to have privacy. He says I'm wrong to encourage such prudishness and that my outlook is unhealthy.

When the boys started to grow up I wouldn't dream of going into their rooms without first knocking. To insist that they unlock the bathroom door would be unthinkable. I'd appreciate your views on this subject

—BATTLE CREEK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I agree with you and I earnestly hope you can swing your husband around to your way of thinking.

Assign your daughter a specific time (and limit it, too) for primping, hair-pinning and bathing. See that she sticks to it. For your anniversary, birthday or Christmas (whichever comes first) treat yourself to a half bath. This is a wash-basin and mirror, ideal for hair-pinning or shaving.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

When The Big Miss Makes A Hit!

Compliment The Buyer!

It's my hunch that the double-take Fashion has accorded The Feminine Look will give a little more impetus to that long-waged customers' campaign for more youthful styling in regular sizes. I hope so. And so do a good many Size 14-16-18's who read this column.

Ask any one of them after a day of frustration among the ready-to-wear racks: the odd numbers seem to have ALL the lines! The most fetching designs, the fruitiest colors fill the racks reserved for Misses' sizes.

Unless you are built to be a 9, 11, 13 or 15, say these disappointed dress-shoppers, your taste is automatically the opposite of a Miss. Or so the designers and manufacturers appear to think. They're still trying to size up women by age.

Actually, the stores' own buyers may rate the lion's share of the blame. More and more dress houses are beginning to heed the plea from regulars still youthful enough to resist looking older than they are. The merchandise is available — not abundantly, but it's there.

It's up to the buyer to deliver the word on her clientele's demand. To do this, she'll have to know her customers better than she does. This isn't easy when a buyer has the job of selecting clothes to fit the demands from a chain of stores scattered in different neighborhoods serving widely varying age-groups, income-groups and individual tastes.

But it can be done! It will take a little study, a little more personal availability on the scene where the shoppers are, and much better communication with the store's sales people.

In all fairness, the customer must do her part, too. One who finds nothing to her liking and simply leaves the store in silence tells an equal amount of nothing to the buyer (or to the manager or the sales clerk who could tell the buyer for her).

When you do find something that suits your taste, in your size, make a point of telling the clerk just why you like it . . . and urge her to pass word along to the powers-that-be. When you cannot be fitted according to your favorite fashion, do the same in reverse: explain to the clerk — nicely, of course — the type of garment you had in mind . . . and accent your disappointment in not being able to find it.

You can't depend on mental telepathy to telegraph your wants and needs. Talk up the demand, where the talking will do some good, and the supply will come.

"Your Color Type" is a pamphlet shoppers of all sizes should find helpful. By enclosing just 10c, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, you can have your copy within two weeks.

When The Big Miss Makes A Hit! Compliment The Buyer!

It's my hunch that the double-take Fashion has accorded The Feminine Look will give a little more impetus to that long-waged customers' campaign for more youthful styling in regular sizes. I hope so. And so do a good many Size 14-16-18's who read this column.

Ask any one of them after a day of frustration among the ready-to-wear racks: the odd numbers seem to have ALL the lines! The most fetching designs, the fruitiest colors fill the racks reserved for Misses' sizes.

Unless you are built to be a 9, 11, 13 or 15, say these disappointed dress-shoppers, your taste is automatically the opposite of a Miss. Or so the designers and manufacturers appear to think. They're still trying to size up women by age.

Actually, the stores' own buyers may rate the lion's share of the blame. More and more dress houses are beginning to heed the plea from regulars still youthful enough to resist looking older than they are. The merchandise is available — not abundantly, but it's there.

It's up to the buyer to deliver the word on her clientele's demand. To do this, she'll have to know her customers better than she does. This isn't easy when a buyer has the job of selecting clothes to fit the demands from a chain of stores scattered in different neighborhoods serving widely varying age-groups, income-groups and individual tastes.

But it can be done! It will take a little study, a little more personal availability on the scene where the shoppers are, and much better communication with the store's sales people.

In all fairness, the customer must do her part, too. One who finds nothing to her liking and simply leaves the store in silence tells an equal amount of nothing to the buyer (or to the manager or the sales clerk who could tell the buyer for her).

When you do find something that suits your taste, in your size, make a point of telling the clerk just why you like it . . . and urge her to pass word along to the powers-that-be. When you cannot be fitted according to your favorite fashion, do the same in reverse; explain to the clerk — nicely, of course — the type of garment you had in mind . . . and accent your disappointment in not being able to find it.

You can't depend on mental telepathy to telegraph your wants and needs. Talk up the demand, where the talking will do some good, and the supply will come.

"Your Color Type" is a pamphlet shoppers of all sizes should find helpful. By enclosing just 10c, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, you can have your copy within two weeks.

India Prepares For Clashes With Red China

By HENRY BRADSHER

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India is preparing for localized clashes this summer on its border with Communist China and that may lead to a break of diplomatic relations with Peiping.

High sources here expect the fighting to erupt from the efforts of the two countries to establish control, over 51,000 square miles they dispute along their Himalayan border. For the first time India might support ground patrols with warplanes in a show of determination, informants said.

In addition to military preparations, India also is taking diplomatic steps. These include planned or already dispatched messages to the United Nations, the United States and the Soviet Union, usually reliable sources said.

India wants the United Nations to return more than 5,000 Indian troops in the Congo, the United States to insure its ally Pakistan does not cause Indian trouble while it is engaged with Red China, and the Soviet Union to understand that India is only trying to protect its territory and intends no general war with Red China, informants added.

Patrol clashes are expected to begin in Ladakh, a bleak area more than three miles high at the western end of Tibet. The Chinese control 14,000 square miles of Ladakh that New Delhi considers to be Indian territory. The last major clash occurred there in October 1959.

Fighting might spread to other parts of India's 2,500-mile Himalayan border with China, most of which is in dispute.

The Indian Embassy in Peiping virtually has been useless the past few years due to Chinese restrictions and harassment. At the same time the Chinese have had a fairly free hand in India. A number of nondiplomatic Chinese have been ordered to leave India because of suspicious activities.

Both countries have had only charges d'affaires in their embassies for some time.

The Indian government thought the tone of Chinese diplomatic notes was becoming milder and more reasonable last winter. This was believed to have been aneffort not to increase the embarrassment of Indian Communists in the February general elections and to placate Prime Minister Nehru in the hope he might make border concessions after the elections.

But since the elections, Nehru has remained determined as ever not to relinquish Indian claims. Recent Chinese notes have been considered arrogantly hostile in blaming India for the border situation.

India accuses China of aggression along the border. Since August 1959 it has been publicly known that the Chinese are pushing the Indians back along parts of the border, primarily in Ladakh.

However, India lacked the military capacity in 1959 to defend the rugged, remote areas far from roads or airfields.

It has taken India 2½ years to build up enough logistical support for its patrols to stand their ground against the Chinese. The patrols now are backed by mule trains and by transport planes bought from the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Hindenburg" Met Disaster 25 Years Ago

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — A few dozen mourners stood in a fine drizzle at Frankfurt Cemtery Sunday to commemorate the 25th anniversary of one of the most spectacular disasters of our times, the flaming destruction of the zeppelin Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N.J.

The Hindenburg, the biggest vessel ever to cruise the skies, exploded and burned as it completed a gala transatlantic crossing on May 6, 1937.

"O God. . .it's coming down. . . and, oh, the people . . . oh, this is the worst of the worst disasters in the world," screamed radio newsman Herb Morrison in a broadcast engraved in the memories of thousands of Americans.

In a scant 32 seconds the huge zeppelin, two and a half football fields long, plunged 90 yards to earth, its hydrogen-gas filled steel framed bulk turned into a flaming torch of twisted girders against the evening sky.

The holocaust claimed 36 lives, 23 of the 61 crewmen and 13 of the 36 passengers.

It also finished German dreams of building a worldwide air travel empire in which zeppelins like the Hindenburg would link the continents. Frankfurt's Rhine-Main airport was to have been the capital of that empire.

Hindenburg Captain Max Pruss died in retirement a few years ago. But captains Anton Witteman and Albert Sammt, who commanded other zeppelins and were aboard the ill-fated flight of the Hindenburg, took part in Sunday's ceremony at a stone memorial in Frankfurt Cemetery.

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

The tardy Trudies and related characters who have a habit of running late simply need to apply management techniques on the homefront.

Management means "using what one has to get what one wants," according to Ethyl R. Grady, associate research professor of home economics at the University of Rhode Island. She put it this way:

"Whether applied to managing the home, to personal or professional aspects of living, to operating a business or governing a nation, management involves the process (using), the resources (what one has), and goals (what one wants).

"The three-step process of management—planning, controlling the plan in action, and evaluating—is applicable in all situations."

In a report in the Journal of Home Economics, Mrs. Grady cautions that one must be realistic about one's resources—if one's management plan is to succeed.

Time, it turns out, is the only resource which is fixed—24 hours per person per day.

But what varies from person to person are the other resources, including energy, interests, knowledge, skills, attitude, money.

Baltimore Beltway Due To Open July 1

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission announced Sunday that the entire Baltimore Beltway will be opened to traffic by July 1, if favorable weather permits construction to continue on schedule.

The $68.5 million beltway will ring the city from Maryland 2 on the south to U. S. 40 on the east, a distance of 32.8 miles. There will be 35 interchanges, and each exit will be numbered.

Originally, the beltway was scheduled for completion in the 1970s. But the project was speeded up last year by earmarking the bulk of the federal interstate highway allotment for construction of the unfinished portions.

The final 12 to 15 miles of highway are now under construction.

PRR, NYC Stockholders To Okay Merger Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Stockholders of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads are expected to endorse a history-making merger Tuesday.

Their approval at separate annual meetings will speed the proposal toward its biggest hurdle, an okay by the Interstate Commerce Commission. ICC hearings probably will start in midsummer. Formidable opposition looms.

At stake: Creation of the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co., a $5 billion, 20,000 mile colossus with 120,000 employes. Never before has a merger yielded an enterprise as big.

Railway labor spokesmen, fearing a shrinkage in jobs, and some public officials worried on monopoly grounds have lined up against uniting the nation's two largest rail systems.

But among stockholders, all signs point to top-heavy support.

Alfred E. Perlman, now Central president, earlier envisioned a tie-up with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, a prosperous coal-hauling line.

With either the C & O or the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Perlman felt the Central might be able to drive a bargain.

But first 1959's long steel strike, then a national economic slump crushed the strategy, and in 1961 the Central plunged $26 million into the hole before an upturn came.

In a surprise move, the C & O bid for the hand of the B & O.

The Central, which had toyed with the idea of the B & O as a partner, thereupon sued vigorously for her hand, but was outmaneuvered by the C & O.

Next, the Central demanded a three-way B & O-C & O-Central union, and finally inclusion in an expansion plan of the money-making Norfolk & Western Railway, which sought control of the Nickel Plate and Wabash Railroads.

655 Attend YMCA Classes

Some 655 adults and children have been enrolled in over 30 different specialized classes offered in the past seven months by Central YMCA, according to Robert M. Williams, general secretary of the "Y."

The program has been an experiment with the latest ideas of the YMCAs in America on informal educational classes for both adults and children and was started last fall.

Attending these classes have been members of the YMCA as well as other interested citizens of the area. These 30 courses do not include those related to physical education.

Mr. Williams stressed that the success of these classes has been beyond expectations and he believes that the YMCA here has taken a gigantic step forward in realizing its purpose and goals through its vigorous informal educational programming.

Youths Returned To Washington

Maryland State Police at LaVale yesterday released four teenagers in custody of their parents pending court action by Washington, D. C., authorities.

The four, two boys and two girls, were arrested yesterday near Grantsville by Trooper J. F. Powers in a stolen car.

Receiving basic training at Lackland AF Base in Texas are James Francis Lee, 300 North Centre Street; Robert E. Hymes, 617 Elwood Street; Melvin Smith, LaVale; Alan J. Church, Box 332, Mt. Savage; James L. Garland, RFD 3, Union Grove; Joseph M. Matthews, RD 1, Oakland; Harold J White, RFD 2, Oakland, and Carl E. Moore, Keyser.

Some of the world's most magnificent specimens of white oak were grown on Maryland's eastern shore. When the first European settlers arrived three centuries ago, they built their homes in the shade of trees that were already venerable. Perhaps the most famous is Talbot County's Wye Oak, a giant 95 feet high with a 165-foot spread and a trunk nearly 28 feet around.

655 Attend YMCA Classes

Some 655 adults and children have been enrolled in over 30 different specialized classes offered in the past seven months by Central YMCA, according to Robert M. Williams, general secretary of the "Y."

The program has been an experiment with the latest ideas of the YMCAs in America on informal educational classes for both adults and children and was started last fall.

Attending these classes have been members of the YMCA as well as other interested citizens of the area. These 30 courses do not include those related to physical education.

Mr. Williams stressed that the success of these classes has been beyond expectations and he believes that the YMCA here has taken a gigantic step forward in realizing its purpose and goals through its vigorous informal educational programming.

How the nation's retailers helped Americans build $121 billion in buying power

The store owners in your community are in a pretty good position to understand your needs and wants—and the importance of your saving for them.

At the start of World War II, they had a vital opportunity to stimulate saving—and at the same time help meet a dire need of their Nation—through the promotion of U.S. Savings Bonds.

Super Bond Salesmen

Few groups in America were as well qualified to promote Savings Bonds as the retailers. They sold over the counter, staged street rallies and parades, sponsored movie premieres, and used all their selling talents to get every citizen on the Bondwagon and help speed the Victory.

The job they did has paid big bonuses. Since 1941 Americans have invested $121 billion in Savings Bonds, spent $78 billion for the things they wanted as the Bonds matured, and are still holding a large $43 billion reserve as buying power for the future.

Bonds and your personal buying power

U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed by Uncle Sam to grow as much as 93%. This means that the $75 you put into a Series E Bond becomes $100 in 7¾ years. Hold it 10 more years, and it becomes $145.

You can buy Savings Bonds at any bank, or on the "installment plan" where you work. And every Bond you buy is a share in a stronger America.

says Alfred C. Thompson, President National Retail Merchants Association

"As citizens, we retailers are proud of the part we have had in the 20-year success story of the U.S. Savings Bonds Program. As merchants, we are grateful for the rich reservoir of buying power the Program has provided for the business community—and the security it has provided for the Nation. We earnestly recommend that Americans keep buying and holding U.S. Savings Bonds."

Complete Sites Termed Urgent Industrial Need

At a week-long meeting with the State Department of Economic Development, Everett G. Partridge, director of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company, discussed Allegany Conuty and its problems.

In talks with Dr. Robert Sparks, chief of Business and Industrial Development, and William A. Pate, deputy director, it was pointed out that one of the county's most pressing needs in the industrial development field is the development of "complete" sites. By this meant a site which has all facilities already in or adjacent ready to be tapped.

These sites must also be available at a reasonable cost, the UPIDC director said, if Allegany County is to be at all competitive with other areas not only in other states — north and south — but in this state also.

At present, there are almost no sites in the county available which could qualify. To add to Allegany County's problems is the geographic character of this area which offers a very limited amount of reasonably level land for use.

Also discussed was the revision of the "Community Economic Inventory" which has been submitted and is scheduled to be printed sometime late this month.

Trash Pickup Report Given

FROSTBURG — Street Commissioner William Preston announced yesterday that 65 truckloads of trash were collected by city workers last week in the current spring cleanup campaign.

Preston said the drive would continue this week with collections being made as follows: Wood Street, west, tomorrow; Wood Street, east, Tuesday; Wood Street, east, Wednesday; Wood Street, west, Thursday, and Wood Street, east, Friday.

Newspapers should be tied so that they will not blow off the truck, Preston said. Other trash should be in boxes that can be handled easily. No objects such as heavy stones or bricks should be placed at the curbs.

Collections will be made from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠Q 10 ♥K 7 ♦AQ 10 4 3 ♣7 6 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Double
Redouble	2 ♥	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. In this type of situation it is proper to give partner the courtesy of the road. You are not in position at this time to determine what will be the best course of action. Partner's redouble announces not only that he has a good holding, but that the situation is well in hand.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠K 10 9 6 2 ♥K J ♦9 ♣K 8 7 6 2
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	2 ♦	2 ♥	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. While it is tempting to enter the bidding, no appropriate call is available. Had partner been interested in hearing about your suits he very likely would have chosen to double originally. If his hand is composed essentially of diamonds, any action on your part might lead to serious trouble.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠6 ♥AKQ 10 ♦A 8 6 4 ♣AJ 10 8
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five diamonds. You have not yet begun to describe the strength of your hand. In view of partner's vigorous action over what may prove to be a near minimum in your hand, the conclusion is inescapable that the hand will produce a slam.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠1097 ♥AJ ♦AQ3 ♣A8752
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 NT	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Partner might readily have 10 or 11 points, and yet have chosen to exercise restraint in responding to allow you leeway for having made a shaded double in the "reopening" position. Since your double was quite sound, you should extend one more chance to partner.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠AQ 10 4 ♥3 2 ♦6 5 ♣Q J 8 6 5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This hand has certain elements of merit, but there is no action which you can take with safety. If you mention either of your suits, partner will probably be cornered into bidding three hearts which will place you in a highly awkward position. When a free bid tends to project the bidding to the three level, the player contemplating such action should be backed up by a holding which is equal to an opening bid.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠AKQJ 9 3 ♥10 4 ♦A 10 6 5 ♣3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Your hand is not strong enough to justify contracting for slam, but hope for slam is not abandoned by the four spade bid. The very fact that you took pains to bid three diamonds, intending all the time to take partner out of his aggressively bid game contract, indicates your willingness to entertain the idea of a slam. If his points are first rate (aces and kings), he may proceed.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠AQJ 6 4 ♥7 ♦A 8 6 5 ♣10 7 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. You possess a good fit for the diamonds and should so indicate by returning to that suit. Do not make the mistake of bidding three no trump. Partner was in position to make that call himself, but bid hearts instead. When you return to diamonds instead of bidding three no trump, partner will be able to infer that your holding probably contains a singleton.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠10 9 6 3 ♥J 8 3 2 ♦K 6 ♣A 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	Double	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This holding falls just short of the requirements for a redouble. An immediate raise should be offered only on a hand with less high card strength and more distributional values. You are forced to compromise by passing for the time being with every intention of offering competition on the next round.

Coming from the Chicago area and ranking high both as a bridge teacher and tournament player is my good friend D. J. Cook, a lady of great charm. Her father, Carey Orr, is one of the country's leading political cartoonists. "D. J." has carved out a very successful record of her own. In today's hand, she was the only player to score 12 tricks.

Mrs. Cook, seated South, opened the bidding with one spade. When her partner responded with two hearts, she was obliged to rebid the rather mangy spade suit. The alternative call of three diamonds would promise a much better hand. North decided not to dally further and proceeded at once to game in spades.

West opened the queen of clubs. The ace was put up from dummy in order to cash two high hearts, permitting declarer, to discard her club loser. Mrs. Cook crossed over to her hand with the ace of diamonds and led the nine of spades next. West followed with the six, dummy played the three, and East's queen of spades won the trick.

The king of clubs came back and declarer trumped. She now cashed the king of diamonds and then ruffed away the opponent's queen and jack on the next round to establish the diamond suit. The jack of spades was led from dummy, and East was helpless. He actually chose to duck and Mrs. Cook permitted the jack to ride. When the ten dropped from West's hand the contest was virtually over.

Declarer ruffed herself in with a heart, drew East's remaining trump with the ace of spades and played the good diamonds. Her only loser was one trump trick.

Street Jobs Delayed Due To Car Races

Resurfacing or leveling of some streets in the main section of town will be delayed later in the week because of the Sports Car Races next weekend.

The Mayor and Council after a re-evaluation of the resurfacing program yesterday said it believes this the best move in view of the heavy traffic expected here for the annual event sponsored by the Lions Club Foundation.

The Stickley Contracting firm of Keyser, W. Va., began work on the downtown program yesterday, leveling North Centre Street. A smooth-seal bituminous concrete surface will be placed later, city sources said.

Today, however, beginning at 6 a. m., it is expected that Baltimore Street will be resurfaced between the two railroads. Leveling of Baltimore Street will not be necessary, officials said.

Wednesday, if leveling is completed, smooth-sealing of other streets will be on the schedule.

The contractor has been asked to stop the program on main streets after Wednesday evening and to pick it up again next week. However, Thursday and Friday he may be working on Polk Street.

Bids were received by the Mayor and Council on sewer pipe and equipment for the White Avenue project and pipe valve and fittings for a water line in the vicinity of Auburn Avenue.

Bidding on the sewer pipe, "y"s, bends and plugs are Peerless Clay Corporation; Super Concrete Company and Cumberland Cement and Supply Company.

Bidding on the water pipe valve and fittings are Darling Valve and Manufacturing Company, Williamsport, Pa.; Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company, city; R. D. Wood and Company, Florence, N. J.; and U.S. Pipe and Foundry Company, Irwin, Pa.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming was authorized to advertise for bids on a two-door sedan for the Fire Department.

Fleming also moved that one bid received on a police cruiser car be returned to the sender and the issue be readvertised.

His excellency added that he intends to visit every parish in Western Maryland, with the visits most likely during confirmation rites next year.

Right Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's and rural dean of Western Maryland, was host to the conference yesterday. He entertained with a dinner following the conclave.

Mayor Urges Citizens To Register For Election

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, on behalf of the Mayor and Council, issued a call to Cumberland residents yesterday to make certain they are registered to vote in the upcoming municipal elections.

The Mayor reminded citizens that because they have registered for the county, state and national elections at the Court House does not make them eligible for the city elections.

"Cumberland has its own registration system," he said, " and a city resident must register at the office located in the basement of City Hall."

The office will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and on Saturday from 9 a. m. to noon until the city registration deadline Tuesday, May 15. A person not registered by May 15 cannot vote in the city election, Mayor Keech said.

The registration office was opened Saturday morning for the benefit of those not able to get there during the week and 48 were registered, City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery said.

Ullery has pointed out in the past that he believes about 14,000 or more citizens are eligible to vote in the city, but at the present time only about 10,000 are registered. In 1958, there were better than 11,000 but a number were removed from the books since that time for failure to vote within a five year period, death and other causes.

To Sell Tickets

The Mayor and Council yesterday granted the Hot Stove League permission to sell Booster Game tickets on local streets Saturday, May 12.

Complete Sites Termed Urgent Industrial Need

At a week-long meeting with the State Department of Economic Development, Everett G. Partridge, director of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company, discussed Allegany Conuty and its problems.

In talks with Dr. Robert Sparks, chief of Business and Industrial Development, and William A. Pate, deputy director, it was pointed out that one of the county's most pressing needs in the industrial development field is the development of "complete" sites. By this meant a site which has all facilities already in or adjacent ready to be tapped.

These sites must also be available at a reasonable cost, the UPIDC director said, if Allegany County is to be at all competitive with other areas not only in other states — north and south — but in this state also.

At present, there are almost no sites in the county available which could qualify. To add to Allegany County's problems is the geographic character of this area which offers a very limited amount of reasonably level land for use.

Also discussed was the revision of the "Community Economic Inventory" which has been submitted and is scheduled to be printed sometime late this month.

Trash Pickup Report Given

FROSTBURG — Street Commissioner William Preston announced yesterday that 65 truckloads of trash were collected by city workers last week in the current spring cleanup campaign.

Preston said the drive would continue this week with collections being made as follows: Wood Street, west, tomorrow; Wood Street, east, Tuesday; Wood Street, east, Wednesday; Wood Street, west, Thursday, and Wood Street, east, Friday.

Newspapers should be tied so that they will not blow off the truck, Preston said. Other trash should be in boxes that can be handled easily. No objects such as heavy stones or bricks should be placed at the curbs.

Collections will be made from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠Q 10 ♥K 7 ♦AQ 10 4 3 ♣7 6 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Double
Redouble	2 ♥	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. In this type of situation it is proper to give partner the courtesy of the road. You are not in position at this time to determine what will be the best course of action. Partner's redouble announces not only that he has a good holding, but that the situation is well in hand.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠K 10 9 6 2 ♥K J ♦9 ♣K 8 7 6 2
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	2 ♦	2 ♥	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. While it is tempting to enter the bidding, no appropriate call is available. Had partner been interested in hearing about your suits he very likely would have chosen to double originally. If his hand is composed essentially of diamonds, any action on your part might lead to serious trouble.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠6 ♥AKQ 10 ♦A 8 6 4 ♣A J 10 8
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five diamonds. You have not yet begun to describe the strength of your hand. In view of partner's vigorous action over what may prove to be a near minimum in your hand, the conclusion is inescapable that the hand will produce a slam.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ 10 9 7 ♥A J ♦AQ 3 ♣A 8 7 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 NT	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Partner might readily have 10 or 11 points, and yet have chosen to exercise restraint in responding to allow you leeway for having made a shaded double in the "reopening" position. Since your double was quite sound, you should extend one more chance to partner.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠A Q 10 4 ♥3 2 ♦6 5 ♣Q J 8 6 5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This hand has certain elements of merit, but there is no action which you can take with safety. If you mention either of your suits, partner will probably be cornered into bidding three hearts which will place you in a highly awkward position. When a free bid tends to project the bidding to the three level, the player contemplating such action should be backed up by a holding which is equal to an opening bid.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠AKQJ 9 3 ♥10 4 ♦A 10 6 5 ♣3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Your hand is not strong enough to justify contracting for slam, but hope for slam is not abandoned by the four spade bid. The very fact that you took pains to bid three diamonds, intending all the time to take partner out of his aggressively bid game contract, indicates your willingness to entertain the idea of a slam. If his points are first rate (aces and kings), he may proceed.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠A Q J 6 4 ♥7 ♦A 8 6 5 ♣10 7 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. You possess a good fit for the diamonds and should so indicate by returning to that suit. Do not make the mistake of bidding three no trump. Partner was in position to make that call himself, but bid hearts instead. When you return to diamonds instead of bidding three no trump, partner will be able to infer that your holding probably contains a singleton.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ 10 9 6 3 ♥J 8 3 2 ♦K 6 ♣A 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	Double	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. This holding falls just short of the requirements for a redouble. An immediate raise should be offered only on a hand with less high card strength and more distributional values. You are forced to compromise by passing for the time being with every intention of offering competition on the next round.

Opening lead: Queen of ♣

Coming from the Chicago area and ranking high both as a bridge teacher and tournament player is my good friend D. J. Cook, a lady of great charm. Her father, Carey Orr, is one of the country's leading political cartoonists. "D. J." has carved out a very successful record of her own. In today's hand, she was the only player to score 12 tricks.

Mrs. Cook, seated South, opened the bidding with one spade. When her partner responded with two hearts, she was obliged to rebid the rather mangy spade suit. The alternative call of three diamonds would promise a much better hand. North decided not to dally further and proceeded at once to game in spades.

West opened the queen of clubs. The ace was put up from dummy in order to cash two high hearts, permitting declarer, to discard her club loser. Mrs. Cook crossed over to her hand with the ace of diamonds and led the nine of spades next. West followed with the six, dummy played the three, and East's queen of spades won the trick.

The king of clubs came back and declarer trumped. She now cashed the king of diamonds and then ruffed away the opponent's queen and jack on the next round to establish the diamond suit. The jack of spades was led from dummy, and East was helpless. He actually chose to duck and Mrs. Cook permitted the jack to ride. When the ten dropped from West's hand the contest was virtually over.

Declarer ruffed herself in with a heart, drew East's remaining trump with the ace of spades and played the good diamonds. Her only loser was one trump trick.

Street Jobs Delayed Due To Car Races

Resurfacing or leveling of some streets in the main section of town will be delayed later in the week because of the Sports Car Races next weekend.

The Mayor and Council after a re-evaluation of the resurfacing program yesterday said it believes this the best move in view of the heavy traffic expected here for the annual event sponsored by the Lions Club Foundation.

The Stickley Contracting firm of Keyser, W. Va., began work on the downtown program yesterday, leveling North Centre Street. A smooth-seal bituminous concrete surface will be placed later, city sources said.

Today, however, beginning at 6 a. m., it is expected that Baltimore Street will be resurfaced between the two railroads. Leveling of Baltimore Street will not be necessary, officials said.

Wednesday, if leveling is completed, smooth-sealing of other streets will be on the schedule.

The contractor has been asked to stop the program on main streets after Wednesday evening and to pick it up again next week. However, Thursday and Friday he may be working on Polk Street.

Bids were received by the Mayor and Council on sewer pipe and equipment for the White Avenue project and pipe valve and fittings for a water line in the vicinity of Auburn Avenue.

Bidding on the sewer pipe, "y"s, bends and plugs are Peerless Clay Corporation; Super Concrete Company and Cumberland Cement and Supply Company.

Bidding on the water pipe valve and fittings are Darling Valve and Manufacturing Company, Williamsport, Pa.; Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company, city; R. D. Wood and Company, Florence, N. J.; and U.S. Pipe and Foundry Company, Irwin, Pa.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming was authorized to advertise for bids on a two-door sedan for the Fire Department.

Fleming also moved that one bid received on a police cruiser car be returned to the sender and the issue be readvertised.

Mayor Urges Citizens To Register For Election

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, on behalf of the Mayor and Council, issued a call to Cumberland residents yesterday to make certain they are registered to vote in the upcoming municipal elections.

The Mayor reminded citizens that because they have registered for the county, state and national elections at the Court House does not make them eligible for the city elections.

"Cumberland has its own registration system," he said, " and a city resident must register at the office located in the basement of City Hall."

The office will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and on Saturday from 9 a. m. to noon until the city registration deadline Tuesday, May 15. A person not registered by May 15 cannot vote in the city election, Mayor Keech said.

The registration office was opened Saturday morning for the benefit of those not able to get there during the week and 48 were registered, City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery said.

Ullery has pointed out in the past that he believes about 14,000 or more citizens are eligible to vote in the city, but at the present time only about 10,000 are registered. In 1958, there were better than 11,000 but a number were removed from the books since that time for failure to vote within a five year period, death and other causes.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, — Flushed from his hurried trip to New York, and blushing modestly over his Emmy nomination for best actor in "Doyle Against The House," Milton Berle planed home over the weekend with a new project in his briefcase.

Uncle Miltoe closed the deal in New York to produce and star in "The Gambler and The Lady" which will be presented as a feature motion picture and also as a TV special. Feeling that lightning can possibly strike in the same place - Milton again takes on the role of a gambler - and no comedy. The Rickhart Gittman original is based on 24 hours in the life of a notorious gambler about to be executed for a crime he didn't commit.

The only person not in the least upset because Marilyn Monroe took a week off "something's got to give" is that expert in nonchalance Dean Martin. "It gave me a rest I couldn't have had any other way," said the who-cares Mr. Martin.

It also gave him time to read a new script "Every Wednesday Night," sent him by Jack Rose. The story is about five married men who every Wednesday get together with a bachelor who is carrying on a romance with each of their wives.

The only thing vaguely furrowing Dean's brow these days is that his picture schedule, if it contunues to get setbacks, could foul up his summer nightclub dates alternating with Frank Sinatra at CalAneva Lodge.

Quite an answer Robert Wagner had for the reporter who asked him if he intended to meet Natalie Wood when his ex-wife arrived in Europe for the Cannes Film Festival. Said Bob, "Do you meet your ex-wife when she arrives on the same continent?"

Wagner is in Hamburg to begin his role with Oscar - winning Sophia Loren, Maximilian Schell and Frederic March in "The Prisoners of Altoona." There's a chance that Director Vittorio De Sica may film some scenes behind the East German iron curtain. This would please Bob very much. Give him a chance to see how the other half doesn't live.

Before all those people praising Jerry Lewis for not succumbing to runaway production start howling about his upcoming, "Travel is So Broadening" - Jerry would like to say a few words:

"True, it's an international comedy calling for some scenes in Mexico with Cantinflas, Fernandel in France and (we hope) Sir Alec Guinness in England, but 90 per cent of the movie will be shot in Hollywood.

"My part is that of a travel agent and his problems with counterparts in foreign places. But only units will work briefly out of the country. Mostly we'll use Hollywood crews and technicians." So Jerry keeps his slate clean - 100 per cent American.

Peter Sellers could accept any one of a dozen offers in the meantime. But producers Stanley Kubrick and James B. Harris know what he will be doing come September, and that is starring in their "Dr. Strangelove: Or, How I Learned To Stop Worrying and Love The Bomb." What a title! Anyway, they say it is a satirical comedy about the way the bomb hangs over the average man's life. And that's some satire!

Kubrick and Harris are negotiating with Ray Stark and Eliot Hyman to make the picture for the latter's 7 Arts Productions.

Tony Quinn is finishing up "Lawrence Of Arabia" and going into partnership with Arthur Kennedy, who is also in the same picture. They are purchasing a New York theatre and have several productions lined up.

The first of them will be "Arturo Yi." Actually, it's the story of Chicago gangsters, but is founded on Hitler, Goering and Goebels. Tony won't be in it because he says it cost him $25,000 to be in "Streetcar Named Desire."

Tony is also going to do "The Story Of Sanchez" as a movie - and he said they are really trying to get Marlon Brando for it - and thinks they will.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Now it's Richard Burton figuring in an auto crash, not serious, fleeing from photographers in Rome. He was smart enough not to go to a hospital.

Vanessa Redgrave, daughter of Sir Michael Redgrave, was married over the weekend in a small town in England to director Tony Richardson. They didn't want the formal wedding their families had been plotting in London.

The Vincente Minnellis wind up their month's vacation in Europe to be here May 11th in time for the sneak preview of his "Two Weeks In Another Town."

It - couldn't - happen - to - a - finer - man - department: The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce hosts and toasts Frank Capra at the Director's Guild the night of May 12th, first time a motion picture personality has been so honored.

Answering the many kind and most appreciated queries about how Miss Louella Parsons is coming along - she had her hair set and her nails manicured in her Cedars of Lebanon Hospital room Sunday.

The little German charmer, Heidi Bruehl, on a publicity visit to Hollywood before starting MGM's "Captain Sinbad" in her home town, just missed running into a former flame, John Saxon. John departed 24 hours before Heidi's arrival for a movie in Italy.

Now that Michael Callen has three top movies coming up, "The Interns," "13 West Street" with Alan Ladd and "Bon Voyage" for Disney, he's returning to his first love, dancing. Mike is doing the choreography for the new Hollywood musical revue, "The Crawling Arnold Revue" which opens May 18th.

Director Howard Hawks and Cary Grant repeating their stag conferences over dinner at Martoni's Restaurant in Hollywood. Also there, "All American" Jim Hardy.

Everything must be okay again between Kay Starr and Don Rickles. They were on the spaghetti again at Villa Capri over the weekend.

MONEY-SAVERS

Answers to 8 questions on car care that Shell dealers often hear

Shell dealers answer thousands of questions every year. Here are 8 that crop up all the time. The answers have helped many motorists save money. They may do the same for you.

1 What's that funny noise I hear? All cars make some noise. But be particularly alert for any squeals, squeaks, clicks, or rattles that crop up suddenly. Could be anything from a sticking valve lifter to a loose wheel lug. Ask your Shell dealer to help you track down any unusual noise. You may save yourself a big repair bill later on.

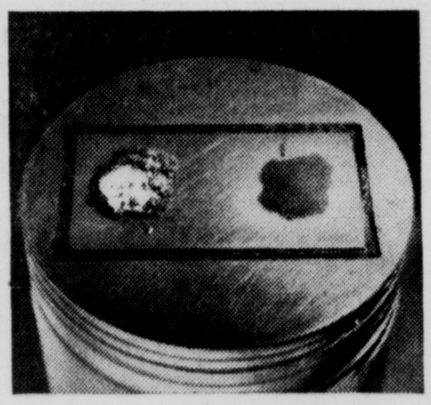
2 How can I get more mileage from my tires? Rotate all tires, including the spare, every 6,000 miles. Drive at moderate speeds. Tires can wear twice as fast at 70 miles per hour as at 45. Avoid fast cornering, "jackrabbit" starts, sudden stops. Try not to bang tires against curbs. And check your tire pressure frequently.

3 Do I really need a lube job every thousand miles? Yes—unless you have one of the newer models that doesn't require it. But with any car, remember that frequent lubrication offers your serviceman a chance to spot trouble before it costs you a lot of money. That's why Shell dealers give you a bumper-to-bumper inspection with every Shellubrication.

4 Can knock hurt my engine? Usually it's more annoying than harmful. But persistent knocking hampers performance and can lead to engine damage. That's why Shell scientists are such sticklers about knock. They even listen for it with stethoscopes and insist that Super Shell contain no fewer than three knock-fighting ingredients.

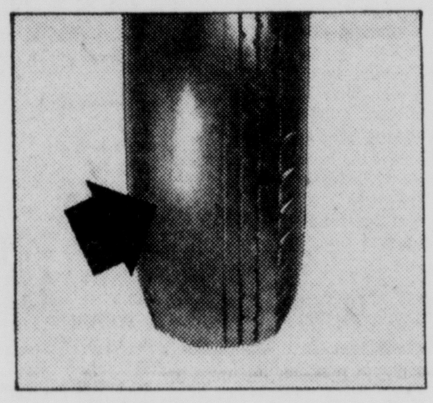
5 How can I make my battery last longer? Here are four suggestions: 1. Let your Shell dealer check your car's electrical system. Worn wires and loose connections can drain power. 2. Always maintain battery water to the proper level. 3. Avoid prolonged idling with radio turned on. 4. Go driving! Long drives help charge your battery.



6 What does TCP do? Shell's unique TCP* is a combustion control additive. The hot piston device above shows one way TCP works. The glowing deposit on the left has not been neutralized with TCP. In your engine, glowing deposits can ignite fuel too soon, wasting fuel and power. Deposit on right has been "fireproofed" by TCP. No glow – no power loss.

7 How often should I change oil? The American Petroleum Institute recommends an oil change every 30 days in winter, every 60 days during summer.

Note: New Shell X-100® Premium is the first premium motor oil that leaves no additive ash deposits. It fights four other internal troubles that can shorten engine life.



8 Why do my tires wear out on just one side? Most likely cause: wheels out of alignment. Result: your tires drag against the road and wear unevenly. Unbalanced wheels can also cause uneven wear and make your car shake or shimmy. That's why it's a good idea to keep tires balanced and have wheel alignment checked twice a year.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, — Flushed from his hurried trip to New York, and blushing modestly over his Emmy nomination for best actor in "Doyle Against The House," Milton Berle planed home over the weekend with a new project in his briefcase.

Uncle Miltoe closed the deal in New York to produce and star in "The Gambler and The Lady" which will be presented as a feature motion picture and also as a TV special. Feeling that lightning can possibly strike in the same place - Milton again takes on the role of a gambler - and no comedy. The Rickhart Gittman original is based on 24 hours in the life of a notorious gambler about to be executed for a crime he didn't commit.

The only person not in the least upset because Marilyn Monroe took a week off "something's got to give" is that expert in nonchalance Dean Martin. "It gave me a rest I couldn't have had any other way," said the who-cares Mr. Martin.

It also gave him time to read a new script "Every Wednesday Night," sent him by Jack Rose. The story is about five married men who every Wednesday get together with a bachelor who is carrying on a romance with each of their wives.

The only thing vaguely furrowing Dean's brow these days is that his picture schedule, if it contunues to get setbacks, could foul up his summer nightclub dates alternating with Frank Sinatra at CalAneva Lodge.

Quite an answer Robert Wagner had for the reporter who asked him if he intended to meet Natalie Wood when his ex-wife arrived in Europe for the Cannes Film Festival. Said Bob, "Do you meet your ex-wife when she arrives on the same continent?"

Wagner is in Hamburg to begin his role with Oscar - winning Sophia Loren, Maximilian Schell and Frederic March in "The Prisoners of Altoona." There's a chance that Director Vittorio De Sica may film some scenes behind the East German iron curtain. This would please Bob very much. Give him a chance to see how the other half doesn't live.

Before all those people praising Jerry Lewis for not succumbing to runaway production start howling about his upcoming, "Travel is So Broadening" - Jerry would like to say a few words:

"True, it's an international comedy calling for some scenes in Mexico with Cantinflas, Fernandel in France and (we hope) Sir Alec Guinness in England, but 90 per cent of the movie will be shot in Hollywood.

"My part is that of a travel agent and his problems with counterparts in foreign places. But only units will work briefly out of the country. Mostly we'll use Hollywood crews and technicians." So Jerry keeps his slate clean - 100 per cent American.

Peter Sellers could accept any one of a dozen offers in the meantime. But producers Stanley Kubrick and James B. Harris know what he will be doing come September, and that is starring in their "Dr. Strangelove: Or, How I Learned To Stop Worrying and Love The Bomb." What a title! Anyway, they say it is a satirical comedy about the way the bomb hangs over the average man's life. And that's some satire!

Tony Quinn is finishing up "Lawrence Of Arabia" and going into partnership with Arthur Kennedy, who is also in the same picture. They are purchasing a New York theatre and have several productions lined up.

The first of them will be "Arturo Yi." Actually, it's the story of Chicago gangsters, but is founded on Hitler, Goering and Goebels. Tony won't be in it because he says it cost him $25,000 to be in "Streetcar Named Desire."

Tony is also going to do "The Story Of Sanchez" as a movie - and he said they are really trying to get Marlon Brando for it - and thinks they will.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Now it's Richard Burton figuring in an auto crash, not serious, fleeing from photographers in Rome. He was smart enough not to go to a hospital.

Vanessa Redgrave, daughter of Sir Michael Redgrave, was married over the weekend in a small town in England to director Tony Richardson. They didn't want the formal wedding their families had been plotting in London.

The Vincente Minnellis wind up their month's vacation in Europe to be here May 11th in time for the sneak preview of his "Two Weeks In Another Town."

It - couldn't - happen - to - a - finer - man - department: The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce hosts and toasts Frank Capra at the Director's Guild the night of May 12th, first time a motion picture personality has been so honored.

Answering the many kind and most appreciated queries about how Miss Louella Parsons is coming along - she had her hair set and her nails manicured in her Cedars of Lebanon Hospital room Sunday.

The little German charmer, Heidi Bruehl, on a publicity visit to Hollywood before starting MGM's "Captain Sinbad" in her home town, just missed running into a former flame, John Saxon. John departed 24 hours before Heidi's arrival for a movie in Italy.

Now that Michael Callen has three top movies coming up, "The Interns," "13 West Street" with Alan Ladd and "Bon Voyage" for Disney, he's returning to his first love, dancing. Mike is doing the choreography for the new Hollywood musical revue, "The Crawling Arnold Revue" which opens May 18th.

Director Howard Hawks and Cary Grant repeating their stag conferences over dinner at Martoni's Restaurant in Hollywood. Also there, "All American" Jim Hardy.

Everything must be okay again between Kay Starr and Don Rickles. They were on the spaghetti again at Villa Capri over the weekend.

An Opportunity For Mr. Kennedy

It is not exactly surprising that the plumbers and bricklayers in New York City's booming $1.2 billion construction industry are seeking shorter hours, more pay, more paid holidays and more fringe benefits. This trail was blazed four months ago by the construction electricians.

The electricians struck to win a five-hour day. The plumbers now want the same and the bricklayers seek a six-hour day. That doesn't mean electricians, plumbers or bricklayers aren't going to work just as many hours as they work now. It means that more of their working day will be paid for at overtime rates.

No doubt this decision by the plumbers and bricklayers is receiving more than passing notice in the "hold-the-line" department down in Washington. Affecting costs in so major an industry as building, it cannot be dismissed as insignificant.

These bids for higher wages (which is what the artificially short work week amounts to) follow mighty close on the heels of the administration's crackdown on steel's attempted price boost. At a press conference, the President avoided stating whether the government would apply to labor the same pressures when it feels the "public interest" is imperiled.

Now New York's bricklayers and plumbers seem to be offering Mr. Kennedy an additional opportunity to clarify the administration's price-wage policy.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

For A Longer Life

I dropped in to a luncheon which Mary Lasker gives annually to award prizes to some who write about medical matters. Mary Lasker's luncheons are interesting because those who are there are often doctors, of some sort or other, and the table conversation can be rich. The medical sciences and arts, and their associated disciplines, are achieving wonders not only in prolonging life but in making life more comfortable. As evidence, I offer myself, who, during the past six years, has had all the major illnesses and has only missed four days of work.

Even half a century ago, this would have been impossible. I should surely have died by now. Alive, even gay, I laugh at those who these days live in fear. Feeling very cheerful after Mrs. Lasker's lunch, I bought myself a pretty necktie, went up to my doctor's and got a B-12 shot, just for fun.

And that is really the whole point of the luncheon and all the speeches that were made, except by the politician—as he himself said—Abraham Ribicoff, who wanted us all to favor his ideas about attaching old-age health care to social security, which I do not like, because I have no faith in social security.

It is, of course, tough not to have the money to pay the doctor or the hospital or the undertaker. But then, poverty is always tough and intolerable and is, in many instances, due to shiftlessness and profligacy and an unwillingness to be thrifty and to work hard, and to push along. It is preferable to save for a rainy day as Albert Lasker did.

Nevertheless, it must be noted that as old folks grow older and as children do not like to be burdened with aging parents, something must be devised to safeguard these individuals. This is one of the few countries where there are no beggars; on the other hand, it is also a sign of moral decadence that children do not honor their parents by protecting them from dependence on government.

The general cry is that hospitals charge too much, which is true, if one does not have the money to pay the going rates. On the other hand, how much is too much about anything? For instance, when my life was saved from a cancer, I regarded the cost very small indeed, because I enjoy living. It is an extremely pleasant episode.

For one who does not enjoy remaining alive but who hopes to take a trip to Hong Kong rather than to pay a doctor, the price is too high. But it is not so long ago that nobody survived certain illnesses which are today handleable by capable doctors and surgeons. This is what the Lasker Foundation luncheon seeks to make known by stimulating interest in medical reporting.

For instance, there was an interesting discussion about retarded children, for which Rolf Hertsgaard of WBAL-TV of Baltimore won a prize. One constantly meets retarded children and even retarded adults. The slow-witted, as they used to be called, are part of our citizenry and have a vote. Apart from the sufferings of their parents and kinfolk, they only too often become bad citizens. The witless often lack memory or they possess lop-sided memories, being blocked on all subjects but one, and that one is sometimes self-preservation which forces them to be liars and cheats.

I can recall, in my childhood, how we used to make fun of such children, but today apparently much can be done for them. The psychologist plays a great role in this reconstruction of children. If only they could reconstruct some adults!

Medicine is no longer, "stick your tongue out!" The application of every science to the preservation and prolongation of life gives us new responsibilities. For instance, the problems of the oldsters grow more serious and numerous every day, particularly as employment rules are made to conform with life insurance company attitudes that are often unrealistic. The problems arising from our better knowledge of foods are numerous, for we socially inherit tastes which have been proved medically to be damaging.

But the greatest problem today is the unwillingness of the layman to understand that, during a breakthrough, mistakes are made which might solve some problems, but which temporarily do astonishing things. I once took a pill that turned my hair pink!

Union Monopoly A Basic Economic Problem

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's strange how often deep-seated issues are avoided or glossed over. The President appoints a Labor-Management Advisory Committee. It is asked to study "free and responsible collective bargaining and industrial peace." The committee is composed of prominent citizens representing labor, management and the public. A report was filed last week after months of study. It makes a few worthwhile suggestions about amending the procedures leading to the use of the Taft-Hartley Act injunctions, but it does not recommend any way to get rid of the monopoly power that brings on major strikes.

Almost as bad as a strike itself is the threat of it. Today, the American people are paying the bill for the artificial speed-up of steel production in the last six months which grew out of the threat of a strike. Inventories were increased in anticipation of shortages. Workers who were hired in that period now have to be laid off. The threat, however, of another strike in steel, with a dislocation of production schedules, is due just a few months hence.

President Kennedy himself avoids this basic issue. He talks eloquently about the "public interest" and how the economy must be kept moving steadily. He goes before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and speaks of the things he has recommended for transportation and the appeals he has made for "non-inflationary" settlements in wage contracts. But he has uttered not a word in explanation of the tactics of coercion he used against the steel industry to interfere with the setting of prices based on economic factors, though the President has no power under law to fix prices. Now Mr. Kennedy is represented as wondering why he got a chilly reception at the Chamber of Commerce meeting.

It will take a long time to undo the injury that has been done in recent weeks to the free-enterprise system by the administration. Confidence will not return on the basis of mere promises to treat labor and management alike in the future. The truth is that, if the President the next time adopts a course of intimidation with respect to a national labor union comparable to that which he employed against steel, he will be compounding his error.

For the real issue that is being evaded is whether the economy of the United States shall continue to be operated under a formula by which federal laws restrain management but not labor unions.

The fundamental question today is monopoly power. The President's Labor-Management Advisory Committee, which filed its report last week, did not come forward with a study of this question. It was, instead, postponed for further consideration. Both Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Company, and Joseph L. Block, head of Inland Steel Company, attached their views to the formal report filed with the President. Mr. Block said:

"The occurrence of national emergency disputes is, in my opinion, due in large part to the monopoly power which enables a single union—or combination of unions—to call a strike that brings to a halt all, or the preponderance, of the production in a vital industry. Surely, the possession of this power is not in the public interest. It should, therefore, be curbed by law, just as Congress has protected the public by enacting the antitrust laws to prevent business from having monopolistic powers. And, naturally, any such law should apply equally to management in respect to lockouts as well as to unions in respect to strikes."

Mr. Ford said: "I do not believe that an increase in the activity, the influence and the power of the federal government in the actual processes of collective bargaining would be in the public interest."

Why aren't these basic issues tackled impartially? The American people are entitled to know. The answer is not difficult to ascertain. It is the fact that labor unions, by reason of the millions of dollars contributed by their members to support the Democratic Party, have achieved a veto both at the White House and in Congress against any legislation that would diminish the monopoly power of unions. How long can free government endure if one economic group has a monopoly also on political power?

The finger of blame is constantly pointed at management. To emphasize this, many antitrust suits are capriciously started in an attempt to smear all business. The antitrust laws are vague and can be arbitrarily applied. A study of what has happened in this field for the last 30 years or more is sorely needed, so that new laws can be enacted which are in keeping with the expanding economy of the United States.

But as long as industrywide bargaining is not prohibited by law and a conspiracy to fix uniform wage costs in an industry by concerted action goes untouched by government, there is little change for a free economy to operate. The end result could well be governmental regulation of industrial management, with no such regulation imposed on labor unions at all.

Neither side wants governmental regulation, but out of economic chaos such regulation inevitably comes. So, in order to save the free-enterprise system, the need is for a law that will prohibit labor-union monopolies. For today they fix wage costs among all competitors within an industry. National unions covering a whole industry are no more logical in a free-enterprise system than are national cartels of management or ownership.

INCOME—Among its other distinctions, Washington, D. C., residents have higher average earnings than residents of any of the 50 states of the Union. It has had this distinction off and on for a number of years, and, according to the Commerce Department, regained it in 1961.

Average income per person in Washington last year was $3,059, an increase of two per cent above 1960. This compares with the national average of $2,265. Little Delaware ranks second, with an average of $3,026. Delaware was first in 1960 with Washington a close second.

The reasons behind Washington's eminence are: the concentration of professional persons in government and out, the heavy and stable government payroll which is not affected by national economic trends, and its lack of low income rural areas.

One other reason cited is the growing tourist trade which benefits large numbers of persons in service-type industries in Washington.

GRAPHIC SPEAKER — Chairman Walter W. Heller of the Council of Economics has the happy faculty, incidentally, of making his subject interesting and understandable.

He was discussing his belief that unemployment is much more serious than shown by statistics because so much of it is immeasurable. To illustrate, he said:

"It's like the fellow who called up the police station from a place hard hit by the recent Atlantic storm and said, 'Come immediately. I am in dire circumstances. I am standing in two inches of water.'

"The policeman said, 'That's not enough' and the caller screamed, 'Yes, but I'm on the second floor.' "

Partial Muscoviscidosis Easier To Treat

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An astonishing disease has come to the attention of the medical profession during the last 25 years. Cystic fibrosis was described originally as a hereditary and fatal childhood disorder of the pancreas and lungs. Most of the little victims died within seven years after the condition was diagnosed.

We know now that not everyone develops the full-blown disease. Adults may have a partial involvement with minor manifestations.

Furthermore, there is some evidence that the disease may be a precursor of bronchial asthma, emphysema of the lungs, nasal polyps, diabetes, peptic ulcer, or cirrhosis of the liver.

The technical name of the condition is mucoviscidosis. The victim inherits an abnormality of the secreting glands, such as those that manufacture mucus and sweat. In this respect, mucoviscidosis can be generalized, affecting all the glands that secrete fluid into the body cavities or from the skin.

The troublesome feature is that the mucous is not normal; it is extremely thick and sticky. The secretion of the sweat glands has a high concentration of salt. When the lungs are affected, the bronchi and windpipe are filled with such thick mucus, the passageway is blocked. In time, the lung tissues and air sacs become infected and overdistended (emphysema). Persistent cough, wheezing, shortness of breath, and hoarseness ensue.

Those with involvement of the sweat glands are likely to perspire profusely and the loss of large amounts of salt leads to heat exhaustion. In some instances, this is the only manifestation of the disease.

When the pancreas is affected, the concentration of a certain enzyme is reduced, which leads to a marked disturbance of the bowel. The glandular cells lining other organs may affect the stomach juices, saliva, tears, bile, and other structures. The full-blown form of the disease is difficult to treat, but it is surprising how much can be done when partial abnormalities exist. The best diagnostic test is done on sweat; in cystic fibrosis, the concentration of salt is abnormally high.

VAGOTOMY

S. T. C. writes: If the vagus nerve is cut in an ulcer patient, will there be any other effects on the body other than decreasing stomach acid?

REPLY

No. Cutting these nerve fibers divorces the stomach from the brain and makes the gastric pouch less dependent upon the emotions.

ULCER SCAR TISSUE

E. D. writes: My ulcer has healed but a lot of scar tissue remains. Does this indicate operation is needed?

REPLY

INJECTIONS FOR BURSITIS

A. V. writes: How good are injections for bursitis?

REPLY

INFLAMED ESOPHAGUS

R. R. writes: What can be done for espohagitis that causes difficulty in eating?

REPLY

This condition is treated in much the same way as peptic ulcer, with alkalis and milk, cream and soft foods. More drastic measures must be taken when the esophagus is narrowed and requires dilatation.

TOMORROW: Pressure lowering agents.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Rep. Fascell Of Florida, Whom Kennedy Helped, Isn't So Loyal

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has been hopping around the USA trying to help re-elect some of the Congressmen who have been under attack from the John Birchites.

He went to Florida last month to help Sen. George Smathers and Congressman Dante Fascell; and he flew to New Orleans last week to help Congressman Hale Boggs. He plans considerably more trips between now and November. Some are proving worth while, some aren't.

In Miami, for instance, the President spoke at a big $100-a-plate dinner over which Congressman Fascell presided. Fascell has been one of the consistent supporters of the Kennedy program—in the past. He stood up and was counted when the voting was tough.

But the Birchites, the so-called study groups on Communism, the Douglas Voorhis crowd, who don't want the UN studied in the schools, have been gunning for Fascell. And suddenly he has put on his track shoes and streaked away from the Kennedy program as if an army of alligators had emerged from the great Everglades swamp to attack him.

Running against Dante is an ex-football player and archsegregationist named David Eldridge, who has the backing of Florida du Pont money, the White Citizens Council, and the witch-hunters who are looking under liberal beds for alleged Communists.

"Not Kennedy's Lackey"

In a political radio debate shortly after Kennedy came to Miami to help Fascell, Eldridge charged: "I am not Kennedy's lackey."

He also returned, with considerable ostentation, a $500 campaign contribution handed him by Jack Gordon, a strong Kennedyite and one member of the Miami School Board who champions the right of the schools to study the United Nations.

In contrast, Fascell accepted material help from David W. Walters, his finance chairman, who is the attorney for ex-dictator Perez Jiminez of Venezuela; and publicly released a letter of support from Dr. Edward R. Annis, a big wheel in the American Medical Association, who has been bitterly battling against Kennedy's medical care for the aged.

This was a double slap at the President who had come to Miami to help Fascell. For while Dante was rebuffing money from Gordon, a faithful Kennedy worker, he embraced the doctor who later went to Washington to tell Kennedy to his face what he thought of the medical care program.

Loyal Floridian

Kennedy also went to bat for another Floridian, ex-Sen. Claude Pepper, who is running for the House in the new Miami Congressional District.

"During your many years in Congress, the people of Florida and of the nation had an outstanding and valiant fighter on behalf of the public interest," Kennedy wrote the ex-Senator.

Pepper also has been the object of vicious right-wing attacks, even more vicious than those originally aimed at Fascell. Because he went to Moscow immediately after the war and had an interview with Stalin, Pepper is being denounced as pro-Communist, and circulars have flooded Miami captioned: "A man is judged by the company he keeps."

These attacks, of course, ignore the fact that the father of Sen. George Smathers also went to Moscow and posed for a photo with high-ranking Soviet officials. It also ignores the fact that some of the ideas Pepper advocated when he was in the Senate, such as an agreement to end nuclear testing, have become the official policy of both the Eisenhower and the Kennedy administrations.

Pepper was also far ahead of his time when he urged the first lend-lease bill to help the French and British when they were under early attack from Hitler. He was one of the Senators who recognized the menace of Hitlerism when many other Senators were completely complacent.

Pepper was the first to urge federal funds for cancer research. Most people have forgotten it, but the AMA diehards were opposed to this research money at first and argued that it would mean government control over medicine. Today they couldn't do without it.

However, despite the vicious attacks on Pepper, he has not equivocated. Unlike his friend, Dante Fascell, he sounded no retreats. He has stated flatly that he is for Kennedy, for Kennedy's medical aid to the aged, for Kennedy on foreign aid, and for Kennedy's aid-to-education.

LBJ Lost In Fog

Poor visibility and faulty communications forced Vice President Lyndon Johnson to make an unreported emergency landing the other day. He quietly changed Air Force jets at Seymour-Johnson field near Goldsboro, N. C., and continued his flight from Texas to Washington.

The untold drama in the skies began with dense weather over Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington. The Air Force has a strict policy against landing important passengers if the visibility is less than one mile and the ceiling lower than 200 feet.

The Vice President's plane was routed to National Airport across the Potomac where the visibility was better. However, the plane's ground-control-approach radio frequency went bad, so it was ordered to land at the nearest clear base.

Two fighters were also sent aloft to guide the Vice President down. As it turned out, however, the fighters weren't needed.

Articulate Actor

By John Crosby

Actors are getting fearfully articulate, one of the terrible side effects of universal education, and one of the more outspoken representatives of this new species of overeducated actor is Tony Randall, a very good comedian who has opinions on everything, everything, and does everything, everything, from weight-lifting to directing.

"I've been considering giving up my career to become an actor again," he declared brightly the other day. "I offered my services free of charge to the Lincoln Center's Repertory Group. They never called me back. I offered my services free of charge to Tyrone Guthrie for his theater in Minneapolis. My wife even said she'd leave me if I went to Minneapolis, but I did it anyway. Mr. Guthrie never called me back."

I'm not sure I believe everyone turns Randall down, but that's the way he talks. "I offered my services to the Phoenix Theater in the beginning and they turned me down for Roddy McDowell. I offered my services to the Stratford Group and the first year we couldn't get together (that means moneywise or datewise, innocents) and the second year they never called back. I even went down to the office and left my name. I offered my services free of charge to Joe Papp for Shakespeare in the Park and he offered me a bit part. It makes me stop and think."

Randall is now acknowledged to be the leading, almost the only, exponent of a certain comic type. "The man I played in 'Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?' was the average man, in a way. He was a status-seeker, a young, nameless man in a huge company hoping he would get the key to the executive washroom some day."

Randall doesn't think of himself as a comedian but as an actor who plays comedy. "I don't think my humor is sick. Except that all humor is sick. It's just a matter of degree. It has always been useful for getting rid of hate, aggression, anger, sadism, and so forth. Chaplin was the average man of his day. He was an outcast, despised and spat upon, poverty-stricken. He was a tramp. He made fun of the rich and people of style who spat upon him.

"Many Americans of the Chaplin era were immigrants with their own habits which were peculiar to that day. They were spat upon, too. And there were lots of tramps. When I was a boy in Oklahoma, there were always tramps coming to the door, asking for work and a meal. Today, there are no tramps, only bums.

"The average man is a Jules Feiffer character. He doesn't have the eccentricities of the rural life, no homemade clothes, no funny haircuts or shoes. We all live the same way in cities. We can buy the same shoes, suits, shirts — identical in every way no matter where we are. And we're identical. The society produces its own outcasts and rebels and its own ridiculous types and they are fair game for humorists. The rich neurotics I've played in 'Lover Come Back' and 'Pillow Talk' were just Stanley Shapiro's private joke. They have little to do with society. They're just funny."

Randall claims he's the world's greatest opera fan. "I can go every night of my life. I don't like going to the theater unless the performances are really great, and for me there has been only one great performance this year and that was Donald Pleasance in 'The Caretaker.' Actually some of the greatest acting I've ever seen is in the opera. Vinay's 'Otello,' Babierri's 'Il Trovatore,' Leonard Warren's 'Rigoletto'—they somehow get carried away under the power of the music and reach heights an actor never reaches. Of course, too, they don't do the role every night for months and when they do do it, they bring such amazing freshness to it."

He mourned the fact that there were no longer any great stars in the American theater. "Plays with people like Charles Boyer and Mary Martin close here in a few weeks. That's unheard-of in England where they have real stars with great followings. Robert Morley can play in anything and run a year in London."

An Opportunity For Mr. Kennedy

It is not exactly surprising that the plumbers and bricklayers in New York City's booming $1.2 billion construction industry are seeking shorter hours, more pay, more paid holidays and more fringe benefits. This trail was blazed four months ago by the construction electricians.

The electricians struck to win a five-hour day. The plumbers now want the same and the bricklayers seek a six-hour day. That doesn't mean electricians, plumbers or bricklayers aren't going to work just as many hours as they work now. It means that more of their working day will be paid for at overtime rates.

No doubt this decision by the plumbers and bricklayers is receiving more than passing notice in the "hold-the-line" department down in Washington. Affecting costs in so major an industry as building, it cannot be dismissed as insignificant.

These bids for higher wages (which is what the artificially short work week amounts to) follow mighty close on the heels of the administration's crackdown on steel's attempted price boost. At a press conference, the President avoided stating whether the government would apply to labor the same pressures when it feels the "public interest" is imperiled.

Now New York's bricklayers and plumbers seem to be offering Mr. Kennedy an additional opportunity to clarify the administration's price-wage policy.

These Days

For A Longer Life

I dropped in to a luncheon which Mary Lasker gives annually to award prizes to some who write about medical matters. Mary Lasker's luncheons are interesting because those who are there are often doctors, of some sort or other, and the table conversation can be rich. The medical sciences and arts, and their associated disciplines, are achieving wonders not only in prolonging life but in making life more comfortable. As evidence, I offer myself, who, during the past six years, has had all the major illnesses and has only missed four days of work.

Even half a century ago, this would have been impossible. I should surely have died by now. Alive, even gay, I laugh at those who these days live in fear. Feeling very cheerful after Mrs. Lasker's lunch, I bought myself a pretty necktie, went up to my doctor's and got a B-12 shot, just for fun.

And that is really the whole point of the luncheon and all the speeches that were made, except by the politician—as he himself said—Abraham Ribicoff, who wanted us all to favor his ideas about attaching old-age health care to social security, which I do not like, because I have no faith in social security.

It is, of course, tough not to have the money to pay the doctor or the hospital or the undertaker. But then, poverty is always tough and intolerable and is, in many instances, due to shiftlessness and profligacy and an unwillingness to be thrifty and to work hard, and to push along. It is preferable to save for a rainy day as Albert Lasker did.

Nevertheless, it must be noted that as old folks grow older and as children do not like to be burdened with aging parents, something must be devised to safeguard these individuals. This is one of the few countries where there are no beggars; on the other hand, it is also a sign of moral decadence that children do not honor their parents by protecting them from dependence on government.

The general cry is that hospitals charge too much, which is true, if one does not have the money to pay the going rates. On the other hand, how much is too much about anything? For instance, when my life was saved from a cancer, I regarded the cost very small indeed, because I enjoy living. It is an extremely pleasant episode.

For one who does not enjoy remaining alive but who hopes to take a trip to Hong Kong rather than to pay a doctor, the price is too high. But it is not so long ago that nobody survived certain illnesses which are today handleable by capable doctors and surgeons. This is what the Lasker Foundation luncheon seeks to make known by stimulating interest in medical reporting.

For instance, there was an interesting discussion about retarded children, for which Rolf Hertsgaard of WBAL-TV of Baltimore won a prize. One constantly meets retarded children and even retarded adults. The slow-witted, as they used to be called, are part of our citizenry and have a vote. Apart from the sufferings of their parents and kinfolk, they only too often become bad citizens. The witless often lack memory or they possess lop-sided memories, being blocked on all subjects but one, and that one is sometimes self-preservation which forces them to be liars and cheats.

I can recall, in my childhood, how we used to make fun of such children, but today apparently much can be done for them. The psychologist plays a great role in this reconstruction of children. If only they could reconstruct some adults!

Medicine is no longer, "stick your tongue out!" The application of every science to the preservation and prolongation of life gives us new responsibilities. For instance, the problems of the oldsters grow more serious and numerous every day, particularly as employment rules are made to conform with life insurance company attitudes that are often unrealistic. The problems arising from our better knowledge of foods are numerous, for we socially inherit tastes which have been proved medically to be damaging.

But the greatest problem today is the unwillingness of the layman to understand that, during a breakthrough, mistakes are made which might solve some problems, but which temporarily do astonishing things. I once took a pill that turned my hair pink!

Union Monopoly A Basic Economic Problem

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's strange how often deep-seated issues are avoided or glossed over. The President appoints a Labor-Management Advisory Committee. It is asked to study "free and responsible collective bargaining and industrial peace." The committee is composed of prominent citizens representing labor, management and the public. A report was filed last week after months of study. It makes a few worthwhile suggestions about amending the procedures leading to the use of the Taft-Hartley Act injunctions, but it does not recommend any way to get rid of the monopoly power that brings on major strikes.

Almost as bad as a strike itself is the threat of it. Today, the American people are paying the bill for the artificial speed-up of steel production in the last six months which grew out of the threat of a strike. Inventories were increased in anticipation of shortages. Workers who were hired in that period now have to be laid off. The threat, however, of another strike in steel, with a dislocation of production schedules, is due just a few months hence.

President Kennedy himself avoids this basic issue. He talks eloquently about the "public interest" and how the economy must be kept moving steadily. He goes before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and speaks of the things he has recommended for transportation and the appeals he has made for "non-inflationary" settlements in wage contracts. But he has uttered not a word in explanation of the tactics of coercion he used against the steel industry to interfere with the setting of prices based on economic factors, though the President has no power under law to fix prices. Now Mr. Kennedy is represented as wondering why he got a chilly reception at the Chamber of Commerce meeting.

It will take a long time to undo the injury that has been done in recent weeks to the free-enterprise system by the administration. Confidence will not return on the basis of mere promises to treat labor and management alike in the future. The truth is that, if the President the next time adopts a course of intimidation with respect to a national labor union comparable to that which he employed against steel, he will be compounding his error.

For the real issue that is being evaded is whether the economy of the United States shall continue to be operated under a formula by which federal laws restrain management but not labor unions.

The fundamental question today is monopoly power. The President's Labor-Management Advisory Committee, which filed its report last week, did not come forward with a study of this question. It was, instead, postponed for further consideration. Both Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Company, and Joseph L. Block, head of Inland Steel Company, attached their views to the formal report filed with the President. Mr. Block said:

"The occurrence of national emergency disputes is, in my opinion, due in large part to the monopoly power which enables a single union—or combination of unions—to call a strike that brings to a halt all, or the preponderance, of the production in a vital industry. Surely, the possession of this power is not in the public interest. It should, therefore, be curbed by law, just as Congress has protected the public by enacting the antitrust laws to prevent business from having monopolistic powers. And, naturally, any such law should apply equally to management in respect to lockouts as well as to unions in respect to strikes."

Mr. Ford said: "I do not believe that an increase in the activity, the influence and the power of the federal government in the actual processes of collective bargaining would be in the public interest."

Why aren't these basic issues tackled impartially? The American people are entitled to know. The answer is not difficult to ascertain. It is the fact that labor unions, by reason of the millions of dollars contributed by their members to support the Democratic Party, have achieved a veto both at the White House and in Congress against any legislation that would diminish the monopoly power of unions. How long can free government endure if one economic group has a monopoly also on political power?

The finger of blame is constantly pointed at management. To emphasize this, many antitrust suits are capriciously started in an attempt to smear all business. The antitrust laws are vague and can be arbitrarily applied. A study of what has happened in this field for the last 30 years or more is sorely needed, so that new laws can be enacted which are in keeping with the expanding economy of the United States.

But as long as industrywide bargaining is not prohibited by law and a conspiracy to fix uniform wage costs in an industry by concerted action goes untouched by government, there is little change for a free economy to operate. The end result could well be governmental regulation of industrial management, with no such regulation imposed on labor unions at all.

Neither side wants governmental regulation, but out of economic chaos such regulation inevitably comes. So, in order to save the free-enterprise system, the need is for a law that will prohibit labor-union monopolies. For today they fix wage costs among all competitors within an industry. National unions covering a whole industry are no more logical in a free-enterprise system than are national cartels of management or ownership.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

INCOME—Among its other distinctions, Washington, D. C., residents have higher average earnings than residents of any of the 50 states of the Union. It has had this distinction off and on for a number of years, and, according to the Commerce Department, regained it in 1961.

Average income per person in Washington last year was $3,059, an increase of two per cent above 1960. This compares with the national average of $2,265. Little Delaware ranks second, with an average of $3,026. Delaware was first in 1960 with Washington a close second.

The reasons behind Washington's eminence are: the concentration of professional persons in government and out, the heavy and stable government payroll which is not affected by national economic trends, and its lack of low income rural areas.

One other reason cited is the growing tourist trade which benefits large numbers of persons in service-type industries in Washington.

GRAPHIC SPEAKER — Chairman Walter W. Heller of the Council of Economics has the happy faculty, incidentally, of making his subject interesting and understandable.

He was discussing his belief that unemployment is much more serious than shown by statistics because so much of it is immeasurable. To illustrate, he said:

"It's like the fellow who called up the police station from a place hard hit by the recent Atlantic storm and said, 'Come immediately. I am in dire circumstances. I am standing in two inches of water.'

"The policeman said, 'That's not enough' and the caller screamed, 'Yes, but I'm on the second floor.'"

I even went down to the office and left my name. I offered my services free of charge to Joe Papp for Shakespeare in the Park and he offered me a bit part. It makes me stop and think."

Randall is now acknowledged to be the leading, almost the only, exponent of a certain comic type. "The man I played in 'Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?' was the average man, in a way. He was a status-seeker, a young, nameless man in a huge company hoping he would get the key to the executive washroom some day."

Randall doesn't think of himself as a comedian but as an actor who plays comedy. "I don't think my humor is sick. Except that all humor is sick. It's just a matter of degree. It has always been useful for getting rid of hate, aggression, anger, sadism, and so forth. Chaplin was the average man of his day. He was an outcast, despised and spat upon, poverty-stricken. He was a tramp. He made fun of the rich and people of style who spat upon him.

"Many Americans of the Chaplin era were immigrants with their own habits which were peculiar to that day. They were spat upon, too. And there were lots of tramps. When I was a boy in Oklahoma, there were always tramps coming to the door, asking for work and a meal. Today, there are no tramps, only bums.

"The average man is a Jules Feiffer character. He doesn't have the eccentricities of the rural life, no homemade clothes, no funny haircuts or shoes. We all live the same way in cities. We can buy the same shoes, suits, shirts — identical in every way no matter where we are. And we're identical. The society produces its own outcasts and rebels and its own ridiculous types and they are fair game for humorists. The rich neurotics I've played in 'Lover Come Back' and 'Pillow Talk' were just Stanley Shapiro's private joke. They have little to do with society. They're just funny."

Randall claims he's the world's greatest opera fan. "I can go every night of my life. I don't like going to the theater unless the performances are really great, and for me there has been only one great performance this year and that was Donald Pleasance in 'The Caretaker.' Actually some of the greatest acting I've ever seen is in the opera. Vinay's 'Otello,' Babierri's 'Il Trovatore,' Leonard Warren's 'Rigoletto'—they somehow get carried away under the power of the music and reach heights an actor never reaches. Of course, too, they don't do the role every night for months and when they do do it, they bring such amazing freshness to it."

He mourned the fact that there were no longer any great stars in the American theater. "Plays with people like Charles Boyer and Mary Martin close here in a few weeks. That's unheard-of in England where they have real stars with great followings. Robert Morley can play in anything and run a year in London."

Partial Muscoviscidosis Easier To Treat

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An astonishing disease has come to the attention of the medical profession during the last 25 years. Cystic fibrosis was described originally as a hereditary and fatal childhood disorder of the pancreas and lungs. Most of the little victims died within seven years after the condition was diagnosed.

We know now that not everyone develops the full-blown disease. Adults may have a partial involvement with minor manifestations.

Furthermore, there is some evidence that the disease may be a precursor of bronchial asthma, emphysema of the lungs, nasal polyps, diabetes, peptic ulcer, or cirrhosis of the liver.

The technical name of the condition is mucoviscidosis. The victim inherits an abnormality of the secreting glands, such as those that manufacture mucus and sweat. In this respect, mucoviscidosis can be generalized, affecting all the glands that secrete fluid into the body cavities or from the skin.

The troublesome feature is that the mucous is not normal; it is extremely thick and sticky. The secretion of the sweat glands has a high concentration of salt. When the lungs are affected, the bronchi and windpipe are filled with such thick mucus, the passageway is blocked. In time, the lung tissues and air sacs become infected and overdistended (emphysema). Persistent cough, wheezing, shortness of breath, and hoarseness ensue.

Those with involvement of the sweat glands are likely to perspire profusely and the loss of large amounts of salt leads to heat exhaustion. In some instances, this is the only manifestation of the disease.

When the pancreas is affected, the concentration of a certain enzyme is reduced, which leads to a marked disturbance of the bowel. The glandular cells lining other organs may affect the stomach juices, saliva, tears, bile, and other structures. The full-blown form of the disease is difficult to treat, but it is surprising how much can be done when partial abnormalities exist. The best diagnostic test is done on sweat; in cystic fibrosis, the concentration of salt is abnormally high.

VAGOTOMY

S. T. C. writes: If the vagus nerve is cut in an ulcer patient, will there be any other effects on the body other than decreasing stomach acid?

REPLY

No. Cutting these nerve fibers divorces the stomach from the brain and makes the gastric pouch less dependent upon the emotions.

ULCER SCAR TISSUE

E. D. writes: My ulcer has healed but a lot of scar tissue remains. Does this indicate operation is needed?

REPLY

INJECTIONS FOR BURSITIS

A. V. writes: How good are injections for bursitis?

REPLY

INFLAMED ESOPHAGUS

R. R. writes: What can be done for espohagitis that causes difficulty in eating?

REPLY

This condition is treated in much the same way as peptic ulcer, with alkalis and milk, cream and soft foods. More drastic measures must be taken when the esophagus is narrowed and requires dilatation.

TOMORROW: Pressure lowering agents.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Oakland Plans Inspection Of Water System

Public Invited On May 10, 11, 12

OAKLAND — The Mayor and Council have arranged for an open house May 10, 11 and 12 to give residents an opportunity to inspect the new municipal water plant which has been completed.

The treatment unit has been in use since January 1. It is equipped to pump and filter 500,000 gallons of water daily, although at present the daily need is only approximately 260,000 gallons. The plant can be increased to supply 1,000,000 gallons daily with a minimum of additional cost or expense, according to Mayor Russell L. Smith, who estimated that Oakland's water supply would be ample for the next 30 to 40 years.

During the "inspection days" the plant will be open from 10 a. m. to 9 p.m., at which time those visiting the area will be taken on a tour if desired under the supervision of Water Superintendent James Lewis and his assistant, Denzil Hile. Brochures are being prepared for distribution during the three-day period.

Information in the brochure will include much about the participants, contractors and a resume of the struggle Oakland had to achieve an adequate supply.

Uniform Control

The water treatment plant was designed to provide the maximum practical degree of automatic control to produce a water of uniform quality with a minimum labor cost. Raw water from the Youghiogheny River flows into a mixing tank. Lime and alum are added to make the fine particles of suspended material merge into larger particles which will settle readily. If needed, potassium permanganate may be added to remove iron and manganese which otherwise may cause laundry and plumbing fixture stains. Caustic soda may be added to raise the alkalinity of the water so that it is not aggressive to piping and plumbing systems.

The water then flows in to a clarifier where it is agitated. Suspended material settles to the bottom and is wasted through a blow-off valve. Clear water is drawn from the top of the tank and delivered to the filters. Activated carbon may be added to absorb materials which cause tastes and odors. Sulfuric acid may be added to adjust the acidity and alkalinity.

In the filters the water passes through a 30-inch layer of crushed anthracite. After filtration chlorine is added to kill harmful organisms which may remain. The finished water flows to the clear well and pumped into the distribution system.

Used Well Water

For many years Oakland relied upon well water and on many occasions there was not sufficient water to meet community needs.

In order to raise the money for the cost of the project a bond issue of $450,000 was sold at an interest rate of 4.109 per cent. Bonds will be amortized over a period of 30 years. Smith said the cost of the entire project has been kept well within the amount of the bond issue.

The town also has made arrangements to add fluoride to the water supply as soon as the equipment is delivered and installed. It already is on order.

Fund Report Mineral Co. TB Unit Filed

KEYSER — The Mineral County Tuberculosis and Health Association held its financial and budget meeting with J. William Marker, president, presiding.

Total receipts for the 1961 Christmas Seal sale amounted to $2,119.15; expenditures for 1961-62 were $2,188.62.

Members decided that the goal for this year's seal sale should be raised in order to maintain the present standing and take care of anticipated activities.

During the past year the association helped sponsor the mobile chest X-ray unit which toured Mineral county for a week last summer. A total of 1,831 people took advantage of the free X-ray service. The unit will be in this area during July. Further information as to dates, time, and place will be forthcoming.

The association paid for X-rays for several people who attended the chest clinic sponsored by the Mineral County Health Department and the County United Fund. A total of $220.50 was spent for X-rays, not counting the cost of the mobile unit. This included clinics held by the Mineral County Health Department and individual X-rays taken at the hospital.

The Association again voted to donate $600 to the Mineral County Health Department to help defray travel expense of tuberculosis activities. The second and third payment of $100 each was made to the West Virginia University Medical School. All state associations have agreed to contribute $10,000 for three years toward a research grant.

A total of $345.96 has been spent for medicine not furnished by the state for patients at Hopemont and those at home. Clothing was purchased for some patients who were entering Hopemont.

Thirty per cent of seal sale receipts were forwarded to state and national organizations for health, education, research and study, case-finding and diagnosis treatment.

Oakland Plans Inspection Of Water System

Public Invited On May 10, 11, 12

OAKLAND — The Mayor and Council have arranged for an open house May 10, 11 and 12 to give residents an opportunity to inspect the new municipal water plant which has been completed.

The treatment unit has been in use since January 1. It is equipped to pump and filter 500,000 gallons of water daily, although at present the daily need is only approximately 260,000 gallons. The plant can be increased to supply 1,000,000 gallons daily with a minimum of additional cost or expense, according to Mayor Russell L. During the "inspection days" the plant will be open from 10 a. m. to 9 p.m., at which time those visiting the area will be taken on a tour if desired under the supervision of Water Superintendent James Lewis and his assistant, Denzil Hile. Brochures are being prepared for distribution during the three-day period.

Information in the brochure will include much about the participants, contractors and a resume of the struggle Oakland had to achieve an adequate supply.

Uniform Control

The water treatment plant was designed to provide the maximum practical degree of automatic control to produce a water of uniform quality with a minimum labor cost. Sulfuric acid may be added to adjust the acidity and alkalinity.

In the filters the water passes through a 30-inch layer of crushed anthracite. After filtration chlorine is added to kill harmful organisms which may remain. The finished water flows to the clear well and pumped into the distribution system.

Fund Report Mineral Co. TB Unit Filed

KEYSER — The Mineral County Tuberculosis and Health Association held its financial and budget meeting with J. William Marker, president, presiding.

Total receipts for the 1961 Christmas Seal sale amounted to $2,119.15; expenditures for 1961-62 were $2,188.62.

Members decided that the goal for this year's seal sale should be raised in order to maintain the present standing and take care of anticipated activities.

During the past year the association helped sponsor the mobile chest X-ray unit which toured Mineral county for a week last summer. A total of 1,831 people took advantage of the free X-ray service. The unit will be in this area during July. Further information as to dates, time, and place will be forthcoming.

The association paid for X-rays for several people who attended the chest clinic sponsored by the Mineral County Health Department and the County United Fund. A total of $220.50 was spent for X-rays, not counting the cost of the mobile unit. This included clinics held by the Mineral County Health Department and individual X-rays taken at the hospital.

The Association again voted to donate $600 to the Mineral County Health Department to help defray travel expense of tuberculosis activities. The second and third payment of $100 each was made to the West Virginia University Medical School. All state associations have agreed to contribute $10,000 for three years toward a research grant.

A total of $345.96 has been spent for medicine not furnished by the state for patients at Hopemont and those at home. Clothing was purchased for some patients who were entering Hopemont.

Thirty per cent of seal sale receipts were forwarded to state and national organizations for health, education, research and study, case-finding and diagnosis treatment.

Heading a contingent of several former editors and many staff members who returned for the occasion was Donald E. Hamill, of Weirton, first editor of the Pasquino.

In a brief reminiscent speech he pointed out that "one's life is like type on a piece of paper . . . everything you do in life marks an impression on your personality, your friends, and your being." In commenting on the many people at Potomac State who have made a lasting impression on him, Hamill paid tribute to the late Miss Wilhelmine Deissle, longtime advisor for the paper; Mrs. Ida Menefee, President Joseph Stayman, Jack Grimes, and Dr. W. BROTHER ACT IN BASEBALL—Over the years there have been many brother acts in baseball. Today we have several sets, including these five, playing regularly for major league teams, with the Aaron brothers, veteran Hank and rookie Tommie, on the same team. The McDaniels are three as were the Boyers, but they had nothing on some of the brother combos of the past including the Delahantys, the O'Neills, and the DiMaggios. (Central Press)

Jack Fairman Fined $25 For Fast Driving

Britisher Attains Speed Of 118 MPH

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jack Fairman, veteran English road racer, spun his Kimberly Special completely around twice Monday on the southwest corner of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway but missed the concrete walls and came in under his own power.

It was the first time on the 2½-mile track for the 49-year-old Fairman, who was driving a little too fast for a beginner to please U.S. Auto Club officials in charge of practice for the 500-mile race May 30.

Fairman was running about 118 miles per hour in the rear-engine car built by Mickey Thompson, Long Beach, Calif., for James H. Kimberly of Chicago. It was merely a shakedown run and Fairman had not started the driver's tests required of all speedway newcomers.

The English driver said an arm rest came loose. His car was out of control for 570 feet.

White Carpet Treatment Is Given Bouton

Ceremony Marks First Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—When Jim Bouton pitched a shutout Sunday in his first major league start, his New York Yankee teammates gave him the white carpet treatment.

"Keep him out there," Mantle told Johnny Blanchard, the volunteer doorman.

"Wait a minute," said Whitey Ford who ducked into Luis Arroyo's locker and filched Luis' "firemen of the year" trophy.

Bouton entered in a barrage of flash bulbs. Jack Reed, who had made the last putout, handed him the ball.

"What are you going to do with it?" somebody asked.

"I'll paint the score (8-0) on it," said Bouton, "and get Hector Lopez (who made three outstanding catches) to autograph it."

The Yankees may act blase when they win a pennant or take a World Series. But a kid from Ridgewood, N.J., never will forget the day he won his first game.

Colts Sign J. C. Owens, Free Agent

Pass-Catching Star Played With 49ers

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts of the National Football League announced Monday they had signed end R. C. Owens, a free agent since failing to come to renewal terms last Tuesday with the San Francisco 49ers.

The Colt announcement said the 27-year-old Owens "came in today, signed and has gone already."

His whereabouts had been a mystery for four days. Several other professional football teams, including the Oakland Raiders and New York Titans of the American League, had been reported interested in signing Owens.

The Colts did not disclose the amount of money they will pay Owens, but intimated it was less than the $25,000 figure the pass-catching end had been mentioning previously.

A spokesman quoted Owens as saying he felt his long-range potential as a player with the Baltimore Colts, job security and other benefits would equal a straight $25,000 salary in the long run.

It has been reported that Owens will become a partner with Lenny Moore, star halfback for the Colts, in a bowling lane business.

Professional football teams had been barred from legally negotiating with Owens until May 1. At that time he became a free agent when he did not reach agreement with renewal of his contract with the 49ers.

He had not signed a 1961 contract and last year played out the one-year option the 49ers had on his services in a 1960 pact.

Owens had his best season of five with the 49ers in 1961 by catching 55 passes for 1,032 yards and five touchdowns. His career total was 176 catches, for 2,926 yards adn 20 touchdowns.

Owens was drafted by the 49ers in 1956 as a future 14th choice while playing at the College of Idaho. He was as much if not more of a star in basketball as in football in college.

LIKE THE FLOWERS in May, the major league rookies are blooming all over the place and in the headline stage now are such as Rich Rollins, the redheaded third sacker of the Twins who has been among the leading hitters in the American League this year; Manny Jimenez, of the Athletics, also among the leading hitters; and such new pitching names as Al McBean of the Pirates and Gaylord Perry of the Giants.

Rich Rollins

They'll separate the men and boys a bit later, but the April growth of these spring time blossoms has taken the play away from the Roger Marises, Mickey Mantles and others.

• • •

BECAUSE of a .400-plus hitting and a terrific slugging average over the first three weeks, Rollins rated the top interest and, while he has dropped a bit, he still is among the leading hitters and RBI men.

While he possesses a good stroke at the plate, he's not built to be a power boy. He is down to 174 pounds in weight, stands only 5'10" and looks more like a high school teacher, which is what he is in the off season, than a pro baseball player.

He won the third base spot with the Twins, and that put Harmon Killebrew in the outfield and Billy Martin out of business and that's some doing.

A native of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., but for years a resident of Parma, O., where he attended high school and where he now teaches in the off season, Rollins is only in his third season in pro ball and did get in 17 games with the Twins late last year.

Signed out of Kent State University for a $6,000 bonus after he had turned down a Yankee offer of $15,000 when he was a junior there, Rollins got in 62 games with Wilson, N.C., in 1961, batting .341, and then last year moved up to Charlotte and the Twins.

Rich started off with a zing this season and hit safely in his first 12 games. Prior to the recent series with Cleveland he had the fantastic slugging percentage of .776 and led the team in batting, homers, runs-batted-in and total bases.

• • •

JIMINEZ, of the Athletics, came up from Vancouver, where he hit .325 last year and is in the plus-.300 group now.

Perry, the high-priced bonus kid of the Giants, and brother of Jim Perry of the Indians, has twice beaten the Pirates this year. He came up this year from the Pacific Coast League where he won 16 and lost 10 for Tacoma and led the league in earned-run average.

McBean, a righthander with the Pirates, had a mediocre 5-3 record for Columbus last year and started two games with the Bucs. He's already won three for the Buccos.

Other outstanding rookies include Sam McDowell, the Indians' young phenom, and Bo Belinsky, the 25-year-old rookie lefthander of the Angels, who is a colorful young man who wears $200 suits and drives a red Cadillac convertible. Belinsky was 9-10 with Little Rock last year.

BROTHER ACT IN BASEBALL—Over the years there have been many brother acts in baseball. Today we have several sets, including these five, playing regularly for major league teams, with the Aaron brothers, veteran Hank and rookie Tommie, on the same team. The McDaniels are three as were the Boyers, but they had nothing on some of the brother combos of the past including the Delahantys, the O'Neills, and the DiMaggios. (Central Press)

Jack Fairman Fined $25 For Fast Driving

Britisher Attains Speed Of 118 MPH

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jack Fairman, veteran English road racer, spun his Kimberly Special completely around twice Monday on the southwest corner of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway but missed the concrete walls and came in under his own power.

It was the first time on the 2½-mile track for the 49-year-old Fairman, who was driving a little too fast for a beginner to please U.S. Auto Club officials in charge of practice for the 500-mile race May 30.

Fairman was running about 118 miles per hour in the rear-engine car built by Mickey Thompson, Long Beach, Calif., for James H. Kimberly of Chicago. It was merely a shakedown run and Fairman had not started the driver's tests required of all speedway newcomers.

The English driver said an arm rest came loose. His car was out of control for 570 feet.

White Carpet Treatment Is Given Bouton

Ceremony Marks First Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—When Jim Bouton pitched a shutout Sunday in his first major league start, his New York Yankee teammates gave him the white carpet treatment.

"Keep him out there," Mantle told Johnny Blanchard, the volunteer doorman.

"What are you going to do with it?" somebody asked.

"I'll paint the score (8-0) on it," said Bouton, "and get Hector Lopez (who made three outstanding catches) to autograph it."

The Yankees may act blase when they win a pennant or take a World Series. But a kid from Ridgewood, N.J., never will forget the day he won his first game.

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

LIKE THE FLOWERS in May, the major league rookies are blooming all over the place and in the headline stage now are such as Rich Rollins, the redheaded third sacker of the Twins who has been among the leading hitters in the American League this year; Manny Jimenez, of the Athletics, also among the leading hitters; and such new pitching names as Al McBean of the Pirates and Gaylord Perry of the Giants.

Rich Rollins

They'll separate the men and boys a bit later, but the April growth of these spring time blossoms has taken the play away from the Roger Marises, Mickey Mantles and others.

• • •

BECAUSE of a .400-plus hitting and a terrific slugging average over the first three weeks, Rollins rated the top interest and, while he has dropped a bit, he still is among the leading hitters and RBI men.

While he possesses a good stroke at the plate, he's not built to be a power boy. He is down to 174 pounds in weight, stands only 5'10" and looks more like a high school teacher, which is what he is in the off season, than a pro baseball player.

He won the third base spot with the Twins, and that put Harmon Killebrew in the outfield and Billy Martin out of business and that's some doing.

A native of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., but for years a resident of Parma, O., where he attended high school and where he now teaches in the off season, Rollins is only in his third season in pro ball and did get in 17 games with the Twins late last year.

Signed out of Kent State University for a $6,000 bonus after he had turned down a Yankee offer of $15,000 when he was a junior there, Rollins got in 62 games with Wilson, N.C., in 1961, batting .341, and then last year moved up to Charlotte and the Twins.

Rich started off with a zing this season and hit safely in his first 12 games. Prior to the recent series with Cleveland he had the fantastic slugging percentage of .776 and led the team in batting, homers, runs-batted-in and total bases.

JIMINEZ, of the Athletics, came up from Vancouver, where he hit .325 last year and is in the plus-.300 group now.

Perry, the high-priced bonus kid of the Giants, and brother of Jim Perry of the Indians, has twice beaten the Pirates this year. He came up this year from the Pacific Coast League where he won 16 and lost 10 for Tacoma and led the league in earned-run average.

McBean, a righthander with the Pirates, had a mediocre 5-3 record for Columbus last year and started two games with the Bucs. He's already won three for the Buccos.

Other outstanding rookies include Sam McDowell, the Indians' young phenom, and Bo Belinsky, the 25-year-old rookie lefthander of the Angels, who is a colorful young man who wears $200 suits and drives a red Cadillac convertible. Belinsky was 9-10 with Little Rock last year.

Explorers Get 12 Safeties; Stitcher Tosses Six-Hitter

LaSalle High School's swatsmiths pounded the offerings of five pitchers for an even dozen blows and got a gilt-edge slab performance from Tommy Stitcher to wallop Beall High School by the score of 14-1 in an Allegany County High School League game yesterday at Stitcher Field.

The Explorers notched their fourth win in five outings and moved within a half game of pace-setting Allegany High School (4-0) in the league's Eastern Division while Beall suffered its first setback after registering three wins in a row. Beall leads the Western Division with a 3-1 record while Mt. Savage occupies the runner-up spot with 2-2.

LaSalle's twelve blows including a three-run triple by Joe Nolan which bounced off the right field fence and a pair of two-base belts by Rick Shaffer. Michael Long, Shaffer and Nolan shared half of the Explorers dozen safeties. John Chaney accounted for two of the Frostburg team's six blows.

Powell Expected To Rejoin Birds

BALTIMORE (AP) — John Boog Powell, the Baltimore Orioles' big rookie outfielder, has been out of action for several days because of shin splints, the same thing which troubled him in spring training.

The Orioles expect the 20-year-old Powell to play here Tuesday night, however, against the Kansas City Athletics. He suffered the recurrence of the muscle soreness because of running on some hard ground.

Powell stands 6-5 and weighs 240. Home run king in the International League last year, he got off to a slow start with the Orioles this season, batting .232. He has two home runs, both in the same game, and nine runs batted in.

Biggest purse for the lady pro golfers comes up May 24-27 in Dallas at the Civitan Open and the pot is $10,000.

Lane Is Back In Sports As Basketball Official

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Lane, on the sidelines for nearly a year after being fired by the Kansas City A's, got back into sports Monday—as general manager of the year-old Chicago Packers of the National Basketball Association.

The 66-year-old grandfather signed with Packers President Dave Trager for one year at an undisclosed sum. His job, as it has been previously in baseball, is to put the click into the turnstiles and mold a winning team.

Basketball isn't anything new to the bouncy Lane, who for 20 years was a Big Ten cage official prior to World War II. But when he returned from service, he started cutting capers in baseball that may never be matched. He was a man of a few hundred trades and a few million words.

He never settled too long in one place. He had three years to go on a contract as president of the American Association when he became general manager of the Chicago White Sox in 1948.

Helped Chicago Sox

He pulled the Sox up by their boot straps with his knack of promotion and trades. But he and the club's vice president, Chuck Comiskey, could not see eye-to-eye. The rift was climaxed in 1955 after Comiskey chided Lane for an outburst against an umpire, leading to a $500 fine of Lane by Commissioner Ford Frick.

Lane left the Sox with five years remaining on his contract. He went to the St. Louis Cardinals and left with one year to go on that pact. Then he hooked up with Cleveland, leaving with two years still remaining. The next stop was Kansas City, where he and owner Chuck Finley fell out with a thud last June.

"My biggest fight with Finley was to try to keep him from spending money foolishly," Lane said Monday. "But there were certain things you had to like about him—he was a terrific fan, for one thing."

Packers Drop $150,000

Lane departed Kansas City with seven years left on his contract, spent the next eight months or so in Mexico, then a month ago arrived in Chicago on a negotiating safari. He was wooed by his old pal, Abe Saperstein, to become commissioner of the American Basketball League, and by Trager, whose Packers dropped about $150,000 in their first year.

By not working, Lane was in a position to collect his Kansas City salary for the remainder of his contract. He still may be able to get it, minus the amount he draws from the Packers.

"The matter of my contract with Finley now is in the hands of his lawyer and mine," he said. "That's all I care to say about it."

Johnson Pick To Beat Jones

NBA's Light Heavy Crown Is At Stake

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harold Johnson of Philadelphia is favored at 7-5 to beat young Doug Jones of New York in their television fight for about 99 per cent of the world light heavyweight championship at Philadelphia Saturday night.

When the New York State Athletic Commission and European organizations recently vacated Archie Moore's segment of the crown, New York said it would recognize a fight between Johndon and Jones for the vacant world title. Other commissions, except that of California, will agree.

Jones, 25, is considered a very dangerous challenger because of his youth, speed and punch, despite the fact that Johnson hasn't been beaten in seven years during which he registered 16 straight victories.

11-LETTER MAN

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Bob Goalby, who earned more than $30,000 on the pro golf circuit in 1961, won 11 athletic letters as a high school student—in baseball, football, basketball and golf. The powerful six-foot, 195-pounder had major league baseball scouts pursuing him but he turned them away for golf.

White Sox Farm Score To Minors

Strikeout Artist Expects To Return

By SAM FOGG
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herb Score, one-time million-dollar strikeout ace of the American League, was farmed out to the minor leagues Monday by the Chicago White Sox, but he refused to admit it might mean the end of the baseball trail for him.

"I feel I'll be back soon," said the 29-year-old southpaw when the White Sox gave him the bad news he was being sent down to Indianapolis of the American Association.

Score, who struck out 263 batters for the Cleveland Indians in 1956 but never has recovered his form since being hit in the face by a line drive by Gil McDougald of the Yankees on May 7, 1957, will be making his second trip to the minors in less than a year.

Sent To Coast

On May 26 last year the White Sox farmed him out to San Diego. After a 7-6 record and a 5.10 earned run average there, Al Lopez, White Sox manager and old friend of the southpaw's, gave him another trial this year. So far he has made only three brief appearances and was as wild as ever.

After getting the bad news from Sox general manager Ed Short and Lopez, Score went to a movie this afternoon with teammates. He said he wasn't hiding out in the theater, and even was able to crack a joke.

"Oddly enough," Score said, "the movie was called 'Cape Fear'."

A White Sox spokesman said Score almost called it quits when the idea of another trip to the minors was first brought up to him last week. But Monday the rugged southpaw seemed anything but discouraged.

"It's no great tragedy," he said. "I feel real good about my throwing this year and my arm feels fine. Al (Lopez) asked me if I wanted to go out where I could get some work and I said, 'sure'."

Won 22 In 1954

In going back to Indianapolis, Score is returning to the team that was his springboard to the majors. Back in 1954 he won 22 games, lost only 5 and struck out 330 batters for Indianapolis. He moved up to the parent Indians in 1955 and led the American League in strikeouts his rookie season with 245. When he came up with an even better year in 1956, and had a 20-9 won-lost record, folks were calling him the left-handed Walter Johnson and the Indians turned down a million-dollar offer for him from the Boston Red Sox.

Ridan Injured Hoof In Derby

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ridan, the third place finisher in the Kentucky Derby, has a hoof injury, it was revealed here Monday.

Ridan's trainer, Le Roy Jolley, said he would announce at a news conference Wednesday whether the horse will run in the Preakness May 19.

Buckeyes To Play West Virginia Quint

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State, adding West Virginia University to its 1962-63 basketball schedule, will meet the Mountaineers here Dec. 8.

The Buckeyes, rated the No. 1 team in the nation last year by United Press International also have added Virginia, Brigham Young and Creighton to its 1962-63 cage schedule.

Ohio State lost All-Americans Jerry Lucas and John Havlicek this season and is not expected to be as strong next year.

AHL Blocks Indians Shift To Baltimore

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Hockey League Monday night turned down a bid by the Springfield Indians to transfer their franchise to Baltimore.

The Indians, who have won the American League's regular season and Calder Cup championships the last three seasons, applied for the transfer so they could take advantage of a new 12,000 seat Civic Stadium currently being erected in downtown Baltimore.

A unanimous vote from the seven other club owners was required for approval of the transfer.

Powell Expected To Rejoin Birds

BALTIMORE (AP) — John Boog Powell, the Baltimore Orioles' big rookie outfielder, has been out of action for several days because of shin splints, the same thing which troubled him in spring training.

The Orioles expect the 20-year-old Powell to play here Tuesday night, however, against the Kansas City Athletics. He suffered the recurrence of the muscle soreness because of running on some hard ground.

Powell stands 6-5 and weighs 240. Home run king in the International League last year, he got off to a slow start with the Orioles this season, batting .232. He has two home runs, both in the same game, and nine runs batted in.

Biggest purse for the lady pro golfers comes up May 24-27 in Dallas at the Civitan Open and the pot is $10,000.

Lane Is Back In Sports As Basketball Official

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Lane, on the sidelines for nearly a year after being fired by the Kansas City A's, got back into sports Monday—as general manager of the year-old Chicago Packers of the National Basketball Association.

The 66-year-old grandfather signed with Packers President Dave Trager for one year at an undisclosed sum. His job, as it has been previously in baseball, is to put the click into the turnstiles and mold a winning team.

Basketball isn't anything new to the bouncy Lane, who for 20 years was a Big Ten cage official prior to World War II. But when he returned from service, he started cutting capers in baseball that may never be matched. He was a man of a few hundred trades and a few million words.

He never settled too long in one place. He had three years to go on a contract as president of the American Association when he became general manager of the Chicago White Sox in 1948.

Helped Chicago Sox

He pulled the Sox up by their boot straps with his knack of promotion and trades. But he and the club's vice president, Chuck Comiskey, could not see eye-to-eye. The rift was climaxed in 1955 after Comiskey chided Lane for an outburst against an umpire, leading to a $500 fine of Lane by Commissioner Ford Frick.

Lane left the Sox with five years remaining on his contract. He went to the St. Louis Cardinals and left with one year to go on that pact. Then he hooked up with Cleveland, leaving with two years still remaining. The next stop was Kansas City, where he and owner Chuck Finley fell out with a thud last June.

"My biggest fight with Finley was to try to keep him from spending money foolishly," Lane said Monday. "But there were certain things you had to like about him—he was a terrific fan, for one thing."

Packers Drop $150,000

Lane departed Kansas City with seven years left on his contract, spent the next eight months or so in Mexico, then a month ago arrived in Chicago on a negotiating safari. He was wooed by his old pal, Abe Saperstein, to become commissioner of the American Basketball League, and by Trager, whose Packers dropped about $150,000 in their first year.

By not working, Lane was in a position to collect his Kansas City salary for the remainder of his contract. He still may be able to get it, minus the amount he draws from the Packers.

"The matter of my contract with Finley now is in the hands of his lawyer and mine," he said. "That's all I care to say about it."

Johnson Pick To Beat Jones

NBA's Light Heavy Crown Is At Stake

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harold Johnson of Philadelphia is favored at 7-5 to beat young Doug Jones of New York in their television fight for about 99 per cent of the world light heavyweight championship at Philadelphia Saturday night.

When the New York State Athletic Commission and European organizations recently vacated Archie Moore's segment of the crown, New York said it would recognize a fight between Johndon and Jones for the vacant world title. Other commissions, except that of California, will agree.

Jones, 25, is considered a very dangerous challenger because of his youth, speed and punch, despite the fact that Johnson hasn't been beaten in seven years during which he registered 16 straight victories.

11-LETTER MAN

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Bob Goalby, who earned more than $30,000 on the pro golf circuit in 1961, won 11 athletic letters as a high school student—in baseball, football, basketball and golf. The powerful six-foot, 195-pounder had major league baseball scouts pursuing him but he turned them away for golf.

White Sox Farm Score To Minors

Strikeout Artist Expects To Return

By SAM FOGG
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herb Score, one-time million-dollar strikeout ace of the American League, was farmed out to the minor leagues Monday by the Chicago White Sox, but he refused to admit it might mean the end of the baseball trail for him.

"I feel I'll be back soon," said the 29-year-old southpaw when the White Sox gave him the bad news he was being sent down to Indianapolis of the American Association.

Score, who struck out 263 batters for the Cleveland Indians in 1956 but never has recovered his form since being hit in the face by a line drive by Gil McDougald of the Yankees on May 7, 1957, will be making his second trip to the minors in less than a year.

Sent To Coast

On May 26 last year the White Sox farmed him out to San Diego. After a 7-6 record and a 5.10 earned run average there, Al Lopez, White Sox manager and old friend of the southpaw's, gave him another trial this year. So far he has made only three brief appearances and was as wild as ever.

After getting the bad news from Sox general manager Ed Short and Lopez, Score went to a movie this afternoon with teammates. He said he wasn't hiding out in the theater, and even was able to crack a joke.

"Oddly enough," Score said, "the movie was called 'Cape Fear'."

A White Sox spokesman said Score almost called it quits when the idea of another trip to the minors was first brought up to him last week. But Monday the rugged southpaw seemed anything but discouraged.

"It's no great tragedy," he said. "I feel real good about my throwing this year and my arm feels fine. Al (Lopez) asked me if I wanted to go out where I could get some work and I said, 'sure'."

Won 22 In 1954

In going back to Indianapolis, Score is returning to the team that was his springboard to the majors. Back in 1954 he won 22 games, lost only 5 and struck out 330 batters for Indianapolis. He moved up to the parent Indians in 1955 and led the American League in strikeouts his rookie season with 245. When he came up with an even better year in 1956, and had a 20-9 won-lost record, folks were calling him the left-handed Walter Johnson and the Indians turned down a million-dollar offer for him from the Boston Red Sox.

Ridan Injured Hoof In Derby

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ridan, the third place finisher in the Kentucky Derby, has a hoof injury, it was revealed here Monday.

Ridan's trainer, Le Roy Jolley, said he would announce at a news conference Wednesday whether the horse will run in the Preakness May 19.

Buckeyes To Play West Virginia Quint

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State, adding West Virginia University to its 1962-63 basketball schedule, will meet the Mountaineers here Dec. 8.

The Buckeyes, rated the No. 1 team in the nation last year by United Press International also have added Virginia, Brigham Young and Creighton to its 1962-63 cage schedule.

Ohio State lost All-Americans Jerry Lucas and John Havlicek this season and is not expected to be as strong next year.

AHL Blocks Indians Shift To Baltimore

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Hockey League Monday night turned down a bid by the Springfield Indians to transfer their franchise to Baltimore.

The Indians, who have won the American League's regular season and Calder Cup championships the last three seasons, applied for the transfer so they could take advantage of a new 12,000 seat Civic Stadium currently being erected in downtown Baltimore.

A unanimous vote from the seven other club owners was required for approval of the transfer.

Tigers Send Fox To Denver Farm

DENVER (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers cut their roster to 26 men, one over the May 10 limit, by optioning relief pitcher Terry Fox to their Denver farm club and selling outfielder George Alusik to the Kansas City Athletics Monday.

Fox, the leading relief man for the Tigers in 1961, was expected to add strength to the Denver Bears pitching staff. The 26-year-old hurler won five games and got credit for saving eight last season but has seen no action this year because of an inflamed tendon in his elbow.

Fox, originally acquired from Milwaukee in a trade in 1960, had a 1.42 earned run average in 39 games last year.

Tribe, Twins Play Tonight

A.L. Teams Battle For Second Place

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (UPI) — The American League's second place spot will be at stake Tuesday night when the Cleveland Indians try to halt the onrushing Minnesota Twins.

Donovan, who has won four in a row, was knocked out of the box in his last start against Kansas City, but a late-inning rally by his teammates saved him from being charged with his first loss of the season.

British Promoter Seeks Title Bout

LONDON (UPI)— British fight promoter Jack Solomons put in a bid Monday for the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship bout, predicting he could sell 100,000 tickets for the bout if it were held here.

Solomons made the bid in a cablegram to Custer (Cus) d'Amato, manager of Patterson.

Patterson announced last week that the decision on the fight site will be strictly up to himself and D'Amato, and that a decision would be reached within the next two weeks. The bout had originally been planned for New York, but that fell through when the New York State Athletic Commission refused Liston a license to box in that state.

Terp Stick Team Belts Duke, 22-3

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Marylane exploded for 10 goals in the third period Monday to rout Duke, 22-3, in an Atlantic Coast Conference lacrosse game.

Duke came within one goal at 3-2 when attackman Robert Johnson scored at 8:41 of the second period. They did not score again until Maryland had run up at 17-2 lead.

The Terrapins emptied their bench early in the game and played everyone except starting midfielder Bob Lemken, who is injured. The victory boosted the Terps record to 5-3, and dropped Duke to 2-7.

Mathews Suffers Shoulder Injury

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves said Monday third baseman Eddie Mathews will be out of the lineup for several days because of a wrenched muscle in his right shoulder.

Mathews hurt the shoulder while batting Sunday in the second game of a doubleheader with Houston. He said he "heard something pop" after swinging at a pitch in the first inning.

Denis Menke, a rookie who can play the infield or outfield, substituted for Mathews Sunday.

Tigers Send Fox To Denver Farm

DENVER (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers cut their roster to 26 men, one over the May 10 limit, by optioning relief pitcher Terry Fox to their Denver farm club and selling outfielder George Alusik to the Kansas City Athletics Monday.

Fox, the leading relief man for the Tigers in 1961, was expected to add strength to the Denver Bears pitching staff. The 26-year-old hurler won five games and got credit for saving eight last season but has seen no action this year because of an inflamed tendon in his elbow.

Fox, originally acquired from Milwaukee in a trade in 1960, had a 1.42 earned run average in 39 games last year.

Tribe, Twins Play Tonight

A.L. Teams Battle For Second Place

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (UPI) — The American League's second place spot will be at stake Tuesday night when the Cleveland Indians try to halt the onrushing Minnesota Twins.

Donovan, who has won four in a row, was knocked out of the box in his last start against Kansas City, but a late-inning rally by his teammates saved him from being charged with his first loss of the season.

The Indians came out of the Kansas City series with three victories out of four games.

British Promoter Seeks Title Bout

LONDON (UPI)— British fight promoter Jack Solomons put in a bid Monday for the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship bout, predicting he could sell 100,000 tickets for the bout if it were held here.

Solomons made the bid in a cablegram to Custer (Cus) d'Amato, manager of Patterson.

Patterson announced last week that the decision on the fight site will be strictly up to himself and D'Amato, and that a decision would be reached within the next two weeks. The bout had originally been planned for New York, but that fell through when the New York State Athletic Commission refused Liston a license to box in that state.

Terp Stick Team Belts Duke, 22-3

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Marylane exploded for 10 goals in the third period Monday to rout Duke, 22-3, in an Atlantic Coast Conference lacrosse game.

Duke came within one goal at 3-2 when attackman Robert Johnson scored at 8:41 of the second period. They did not score again until Maryland had run up at 17-2 lead.

The Terrapins emptied their bench early in the game and played everyone except starting midfielder Bob Lemken, who is injured. The victory boosted the Terps record to 5-3, and dropped Duke to 2-7.

Mathews Suffers Shoulder Injury

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves said Monday third baseman Eddie Mathews will be out of the lineup for several days because of a wrenched muscle in his right shoulder.

Mathews hurt the shoulder while batting Sunday in the second game of a doubleheader with Houston. He said he "heard something pop" after swinging at a pitch in the first inning.

Mathews was removed from the game. The Braves said x-rays showed there was no break.

Denis Menke, a rookie who can play the infield or outfield, substituted for Mathews Sunday.

The Tigers also will make stops in Hawaii and Hong Kong, a reliable source told The Associated Press.

Market Suffers Slight Loss In Quiet Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Light selling pressure was enough to produce a small loss in the stock market Monday in the absence of demand.

Trading was the smallest since last July 24, totaling only 2,530,000 shares compared with 3,010,000 last Friday.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.22 while the Dow-Jones industrial average slipped 0.21 with Alcoa off 1⅜, Owens-Illinois Glass up 1⅜; Procter & Gamble up 1¼ and Woolworth up 1¾.

Although trading was quiet, 1,286 issues were traded — 24 more than last Friday. Declines outnumbered advances by 606 to 425 as 25 issues rose to new 1962 highs and 83 skidded to new lows.

Rails were hit fairly hard for the second consecutive session, reacting to a wage settlement between the roads and non-operating employes proposed by a presidential board calling for a small wage increase instead of the cut in many paychecks the carriers had wanted.

Market Suffers Slight Loss In Quiet Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Light selling pressure was enough to produce a small loss in the stock market Monday in the absence of demand.

Trading was the smallest since last July 24, totaling only 2,530,425 as 25 issues rose to new 1962 highs and 83 skidded to new lows.

Rails were hit fairly hard for the second consecutive session, reacting to a wage settlement between the roads and non-operating employes proposed by a presidential board calling for a small wage increase instead of the cut in many paychecks the carriers had wanted.

Korvette was the day's most active issue falling 2½ on 58,100 shares.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.22 while the Dow-Jones industrial average slipped 0.21 with Alcoa off 1⅜, Owens-Illinois Glass up 1⅜; Procter & Gamble up 1¼ and Woolworth up 1¾.

Although trading was quiet, 1,286 issues were traded — 24 more than last Friday. Declines outnumbered advances by 606 to

Cards Of Thanks

The gratitude in my heart can never be fully expressed. But I want to thank the priest Father Sleeman, Eichcorn Funeral Home, neighbor's our friends and relations for their kindness at the sudden death of my dear brother John McGowan.
His sister who loved him very much
FLORENCE McGOWAN McCOSKRIE
Doylestown, Ohio

We take this means of extending our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind during our recent bereavement, the death of our father and grandfather, John W. Glantzer. We especially wish to thank Rev. Robert B. Logan, the Scarpelli Funeral Home, the pallbearers, those who donated cars, sent floral tributes and all others who in any manner assisted us.

Ft. Hill Seniors Distributing New Yearbook

More than 1,000 copies of the 1962 "Sabre," Fort Hill High School's yearbook, are being distributed this week to students, faculty and friends of the school by members of the Senior class.

This year's annual is bound in a red and white cover. These two colors were selected by the editors-in-chief and the sports editor to tie in with the school colors of scarlet and white.

The book is in Memoriam to Robert Morris, a former Problems of Democracy teacher at Fort Hill. Mr. Morris was chairman of the Social Studies Department at Fort Hill for over 25 years.

The book, using an original theme based on Fort Hill's Alma Mater, pictures the many phases of school life at Fort Hill during the year. Featured are the Outstanding Boy, David Lewis; and the Outstanding Girl, Peggy Groves. Pictures of homerooms, seniors, activities, and sports are also important parts of the book.

Debby Smith, Barbara Parsons, and Ruth Montgomery comprised the staff of Charlene Sibley and Sharon McElfish, activities editors. Margaret Cook was faculty editor and Diane Snoots and Carol Folk served on this staff.

The underclass staff was comprised of Linda Himmier and Mary Lief with Nancy Weber and Carolyn Liller as editors. David Lewis served as sports editor. Typists were Anna Bryant and Donna Twigg.

The photography staff was made up of Ed Holshey, Paul Fisher, and David Lynch, editors, and Dave Adams, Don Decker, Randy Rice and Rob Lynch, assistant photographers.

PSC Asked To Stay B&O Job Merger

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen asked the Public Service Commission Monday to stay elimination of 13 jobs on Baltimore and Ohio passenger trains between Baltimore and Cumberland.

The union said the B&O intends to merge baggagemen and flagmen into one position.

Its petition to the PSC claimed this would be an unsafe operating practice which will operate to the detriment of and endanger the safety of the public."

The petition asked the PSC to issue a temporary order restraining the railroad from making the change until a hearing may be held.

(A Brotherhood spokesman said last night he had been informed the PSC has scheduled the hearing for Thursday at 2:30 p.m.)

YMCA Rifle Club Awards Presented

Pro-marksman, marksman, marksman first class and sharpshooter medals of the National Rifle Association were presented for skill accomplishment, he said.

Guest Of Club

H. Warren McCann, lieutenant-governor of the Ninth District of the Kiwanis Capital District, will be the guest of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at its weekly meeting Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Ft. Hill Seniors Distributing New Yearbook

More than 1,000 copies of the 1962 "Sabre," Fort Hill High School's yearbook, are being distributed this week to students, faculty and friends of the school by members of the Senior class.

This year's annual is bound in a red and white cover. These two colors were selected by the editors-in-chief and the sports editor to tie in with the school colors of scarlet and white.

The book is in Memoriam to Robert Morris, a former Problems of Democracy teacher at Fort Hill. Mr. Morris was chairman of the Social Studies Department at Fort Hill for over 25 years.

The book, using an original theme based on Fort Hill's Alma Mater, pictures the many phases of school life at Fort Hill during the year. Featured are the Outstanding Boy, David Lewis; and the Outstanding Girl, Peggy Groves. Pictures of homerooms, seniors, activities, and sports are also important parts of the book.

PSC Asked To Stay B&O Job Merger

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen asked the Public Service Commission Monday to stay elimination of 13 jobs on Baltimore and Ohio passenger trains between Baltimore and Cumberland.

Its petition to the PSC claimed this would be an unsafe operating practice which will operate to the detriment of and endanger the safety of the public."

The petition asked the PSC to issue a temporary order restraining the railroad from making the change until a hearing may be held.

(A Brotherhood spokesman said last night he had been informed the PSC has scheduled the hearing for Thursday at 2:30 p.m.)

Sun Endorses Renomination Of Gov. Tawes

Rejects Both Major Opponents

"We take full cognizance . . . of the dingy old political documents lately brought forward by James H. Pollack, vengeful . . . political leader whose manifold appetites include an ambition to own a governor," the editorial read.

"We make no excuse for Gov. Tawes in his early dealings with Mr. Pollack. We expressed at the time our extreme disapproval of the governor's first Green Bag appointments, with their over-generous patronage pay-offs to Mr. Pollack for his help in the election of 1958.

Termed Old Story

"We note again that this is an old story. That Mr. Tawes and Mr. Pollack had a deal in 1958 was an open secret. What matters today is that Mr. Pollack did not succeed in his attempt to assume proprietorship of the State House. If he had succeeded, he would not now be trafficking in tapes and papers."

The editorial credited Tawes with ignoring Pollack threats in the heat of an administration struggle for passage of savings and loan regulations and a measure reforming Baltimore's Municipal Court system.

"In broad terms," the editorial stated, "Mr. Tawes' most notable accomplishment has been fiscal. He has fought off massive special-interest assaults on the state's financial position, which has never been sounder than it is today.

Is Good Record

"We believe that the nomination of his principal opponent, George P. Mahoney, would emphatically not be in the best interests of the State of Maryland.

"We state our preference in full awareness that another candidate, David Hume, has gathered strength in the past few days, but we do not reckon Mr. Hume an adequate aspirant."

The Sun said "Mr. Mahoney's public philosophy is to get votes, by whatever means may be handy."

Mahoney Cites Tawes-Pollack 'Agreement'

Mahoney, who appeared with his wife on a Baltimore television broadcast, stated emphatically that he had made no patronage deal to obtain Pollack's support.

"Let me make this absolutely clear. . .," Mahoney said. "No one makes a deal with Mahoney. Everybody who is engaged in political life in Maryland knows this. No one but . . . the people of Maryland will control me."

Denies Deal

Pollack, who supported Tawes in the 1958 gubernatorial campaign, played for newsmen last Saturday a tape recording which he said proved Tawes made a patronage deal with him.

The agreement, he said, involved the substitution of several Baltimore political appointments, including judgeships, for campaign funds to be used in Tawes' behalf.

The governor denied immediately afterward that he had made a deal with Pollack, and claimed the tape - playing incident was "political blackmail."

Saul A. Harris, Baltimore state's attorney, indicated Monday the taped conversation between two persons purported to be Tawes and Pollack may be heard by the city's grand jury.

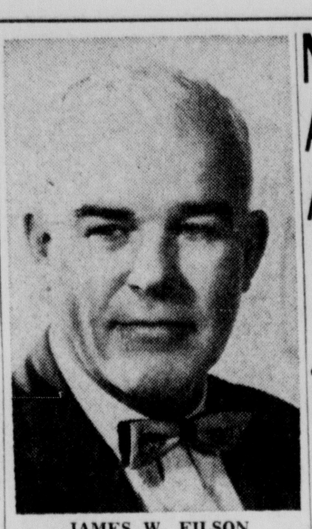
Makes 5th Bid

"The transcript of the tape recording and their joint safe deposit box—as reported in the newspapers—proves beyond a shadow of doubt that Millard Tawes entered into this disgraceful deal," Mahoney said. "What kind of a man would make a deal like this?" he asked.

Pollack also produced a written agreement involving a safe deposit box he purportedly held jointly with Tawes.

"In the past, Mr. Pollack has supported such eminent statesmen as Albert Ritchie, Preston Lane, Herbert O'Conor Sr., Sen. Millard Tydings and Sen. George Radcliffe, as well as President Kennedy!" Mahoney continued.

"I know none of these men found it necessary to enter into a deal or to rent a joint safe deposit box with Mr. Pollack!"



JAMES W. FILSON

Witnesses Open Week Of Services

James W. Filson, district minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, will arrive today to initiate a week of special activity for the local congregation that will be climaxed with a three-day seminar beginning Friday.

John C. Richmond Jr., overseer of the local congregation, said more than 700 delegates are expected to attend the program at the National Guard Armory.

Mr. Filson will speak at Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 1715 Frederick Street, today at 8 p. m., in the importance of the planned program and reveiew the week's activity.

As the guest speaker of the seminar, Filson, a traveling representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, Brooklyn, N. Y., will discuss "Who Will Rule the World?", Sunday at 3 p. m.

George W. Krausse, associate minister of the local congregation, will appear on the three-day training program. He will present a staged dramatization Saturday evening, designed to encourage delegates to share with others what they have learned from their Bible studies.

Krausse has been an active minister for Jehovah's Witnesses for over nine years. His wife, Marian E. Krause, is also active, serving as a special missionary. Their 18 year-old daughter, Gale, is a student at Ridgeley High School.

Cancer Drive Returns Urged

The Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society reports returns are still coming in from its "Sunday Crusade" on April 29 and officials are hopeful the drive will exceed last year's total.

Persons who were not home during the house-to-house canvass and who received small brown envelopes are urged to use them to send in their contributions.

However, persons who did not receive the envelopes and who wish to contribute to the Cancer Crusade may do so by sending their donations to Cancer Crusade, 128 Union Street, Cumberland, Md.

Mrs. Regina Cioni, executive secretary of the unit, said there also is a number of business firms who have not returned their envelopes.

Jury Is Briefed On Contents Of Tape Recording

Tawes To Discuss Campaign Tactics

By The Associated Press

A potential Baltimore grand jury review was added Monday to the bubbling political tempest created by Jack Pollack's replay of a tape recording he claims proves Gov. Tawes agreed to a patronage deal.

Harris said the jurors told him to continue his investigation and take it up with their successors. The present jury is due to finish its term Friday.

Harris refused to discuss what possible violations he considered were contained in the tape.

Adds To Mystery

"I welcome a grand jury investigation," declared Pollack. "It will involve Gov. Tawes and not me."

He added that Gov. Tawes "finally got what was coming to him and that the chief executive "lied when he said this is a fake tape. Isn't that enough for a grand jury?"

Pollack also added to curiosity and mystery about the tape when he said "I didn't make the tape recording." He declined to say who made the recording or who ordered it.

Pollack identified the tape at Saturday's playing as a private conversation he had with the governor in 1958 before the primary election that year.

Pollack said it proved the governor promised him certain appointments to Baltimore jobs and that the governor took $5,00 from him. Pollack also displayed a copy of an agreement purportedly signed by him and Tawes about disposal of the contents of a safe deposit box.

Pollack said there was $50,00 in the box to be used for expenses of the 1958 primary in Baltimore City.

Tawes Will Speak

While Harris declined to discuss what violations of the law might be considered by a grand jury, Hyman A. Pressman outlined some in a letter to the state's attorney.

Pressman cited the Corrupt Practices Act on elections concerning contributions and reports of them with expenses. He also mentioned a law about threats that would bring a person into disrepute.

Gov. Tawes has scheduled a television appearance (WMAR 7 p.m.) Tuesday night which is being advertised as a discussion of the campaign tactics employed by what he called the Pollack-Mahoney combine.

A total of 256 persons including 182 men and 74 women declined to indicate their party affiliation, according to Mr. Kelly, who said six Socialists, including four men and two women, and two persons who signed up as belonging to other parties, are also registered.

The primary election, when county and state officials will be nominated, will be held next Tuesday, May 15.

The registration books at the County Board of Election Supervisors office at the Court House were closed on April 14 and will be reopened on May 26 until September 24, when they will be closed prior to the November 6 general election.

Sun Endorses Renomination Of Gov. Tawes

Rejects Both Major Opponents

"We take full cognizance . . . of the dingy old political documents lately brought forward by James H. Pollack, vengeful . . . political leader whose manifold appetites include an ambition to own a governor," the editorial read.

"We make no excuse for Gov. Tawes in his early dealings with Mr. Pollack. We expressed at the time our extreme disapproval of the governor's first Green Bag appointments, with their over-generous patronage pay-offs to Mr. Pollack for his help in the election of 1958.

Termed Old Story

"Nor do we find persuasive the governor's response to the tape recordings and papers now brandished by Mr. Pollack.

"We note again that this is an old story. That Mr. Tawes and Mr. Pollack had a deal in 1958 was an open secret. What matters today is that Mr. Pollack did not succeed in his attempt to assume proprietorship of the State House. If he had succeeded, he would not now be trafficking in tapes and papers."

The editorial credited Tawes with ignoring Pollack threats in the heat of an administration struggle for passage of savings and loan regulations and a measure reforming Baltimore's Municipal Court system.

"In broad terms," the editorial stated, "Mr. Tawes' most notable accomplishment has been fiscal. He has fought off massive special-interest assaults on the state's financial position, which has never been sounder than it is today.

Is Good Record

"We believe that the nomination of his principal opponent, George P. Mahoney, would emphatically not be in the best interests of the State of Maryland.

"We state our preference in full awareness that another candidate, David Hume, has gathered strength in the past few days, but we do not reckon Mr. Hume an adequate aspirant."

The Sun said "Mr. Mahoney's public philosophy is to get votes, by whatever means may be handy."

Mahoney Cites Tawes-Pollack 'Agreement'

Mahoney, who appeared with his wife on a Baltimore television broadcast, stated emphatically that he had made no patronage deal to obtain Pollack's support.

"Let me make this absolutely clear. . .," Mahoney said. "No one makes a deal with Mahoney. Everybody who is engaged in political life in Maryland knows this. No one but . . . the people of Maryland will control me."

Denies Deal

Pollack, who supported Tawes in the 1958 gubernatorial campaign, played for newsmen last Saturday a tape recording which he said proved Tawes made a patronage deal with him.

The agreement, he said, involved the substitution of several Baltimore political appointments, including judgeships, for campaign funds to be used in Tawes' behalf.

The governor denied immediately afterward that he had made a deal with Pollack, and claimed the tape - playing incident was "political blackmail."

Saul A. Harris, Baltimore state's attorney, indicated Monday the taped conversation between two persons purported to be Tawes and Pollack may be heard by the city's grand jury.

Makes 5th Bid

"The transcript of the tape recording and their joint safe deposit box—as reported in the newspapers—proves beyond a shadow of doubt that Millard Tawes entered into this disgraceful deal," Mahoney said. "What kind of a man would make a deal like this?" he asked.

Pollack also produced a written agreement involving a safe deposit box he purportedly held jointly with Tawes.

"I know none of these men found it necessary to enter into a deal or to rent a joint safe deposit box with Mr. Pollack!"

By The Associated Press

A potential Baltimore grand jury review was added Monday to the bubbling political tempest created by Jack Pollack's replay of a tape recording he claims proves Gov. Tawes agreed to a patronage deal.

Saul A. Harris, Baltimore state's attorney, conferred with the grand jury on contents of the tape which Pollack played for newsmen last Saturday.

Harris said the jurors told him to continue his investigation and take it up with their successors. The present jury is due to finish its term Friday.

Harris refused to discuss what possible violations he considered were contained in the tape.

Adds To Mystery

"I welcome a grand jury investigation," declared Pollack. "It will involve Gov. Tawes and not me."

He added that Gov. Tawes "finally got what was coming to him and that the chief executive "lied when he said this is a fake tape. Isn't that enough for a grand jury?"

Pollack also added to curiosity and mystery about the tape when he said "I didn't make the tape recording." He declined to say who made the recording or who ordered it.

Pollack identified the tape at Saturday's playing as a private conversation he had with the governor in 1958 before the primary election that year.

Pollack said it proved the governor promised him certain appointments to Baltimore jobs and that the governor took $5,00 from him. Pollack also displayed a copy of an agreement purportedly signed by him and Tawes about disposal of the contents of a safe deposit box.

Pollack said there was $50,00 in the box to be used for expenses of the 1958 primary in Baltimore City.

Tawes Will Speak

While Harris declined to discuss what violations of the law might be considered by a grand jury, Hyman A. Pressman outlined some in a letter to the state's attorney.

Pressman cited the Corrupt Practices Act on elections concerning contributions and reports of them with expenses. He also mentioned a law about threats that would bring a person into disrepute.

Gov. Tawes has scheduled a television appearance (WMAR 7 p.m.) Tuesday night which is being advertised as a discussion of the campaign tactics employed by what he called the Pollack-Mahoney combine.
